Upturn in Business Here Predicted by Industrial Leaders

Local Utilities, Other Companies Plan Improvements During Year

An improved, more stable economy during 1959 is predicted today by Marion business and industrial leaders as they look forward to the new year hopeful that the last remnants of the 1958 recession have been dispelled.

While few believe that 1959 business activities will reach the levels of 1956 and early 1957, they are optimistic that conditions will show marked improvement over 1958.

Nationally, there appears to be a general, although gradual, upturn in business and industrial activity and it is expected to continue at least through the first six months of the year when there may be a leveling off, local leaders suggest.

As usual the most optimistic of the local businesses are the utilities. They are planning to carry forth with plant improvement programs during the coming year and local managers express faith in the economic possibilities of the Marion area.

ON THE OTHER hand, at least one local industrialist, while not predicting a downturn in 1959, believes there will not be a noticeable improvement and that this is not serious because it will serve to check inflationary trends.

In addition to the utilities companies, some other local plants are planning improvements and expansion of facilities that, in the aggregate, could amount to expenditures totaling several hundred thousand dollars. Some also are planning new and improved products to improve their competitive positions.

ALL IN ALL, most business and industrial leaders are anticipating a gradual increase in activity in the coming months which will make it possible to maintain and perhaps permit some raising of employment levels over last year.

One important key to the improvement of local conditions is the settlement of the strike of the W. Center St. plant of the Marion Power Shovel Co. by the 1,400-member Local 1949, United Steel Workers.

Another is the hope that the federal road building program will pick up more speed in 1959 and local manufacturers of construction equipment, road scrapers, rollers and truck components will get a proportionate share of the business in a highly competitive field.

Comments of local industrial and business leaders on the outlook for the coming year follow:

A. F. Basick Jr., executive vice president and general manager of the Marion Power Shovel Co., said: "In our present situation, it naturally is impossible to predict what kind of a 1959 . . . (the company) will have."

"There are many indications that the various markets for our products will be more active than in 1958. Construction, coal mining, metal mining and export markets should all need more excavators."

"However, the competition for the available business is keener than ever. Since the total demand certainly will not equal the productive capacity of all the shovel manufacturers, it is safe to predict a hard fight for orders."

"We have been working to put Marion Power Shovel Co. in a good competitive position in the areas of sales, organization and policy, engineering, manufacturing and finance. Our business success in the year ahead will depend largely on our progress—or lack of it—in those areas."

E. J. Baxter, works manager of the Marion Division plant of the Pollak Steel Co., noting that the company is entering the 40th year of ownership and operation of the plant here, said:

"Fortunately we have escaped the full effects of the 1958 recession which greatly reduced the operating rate of the steel industry generally."

"Specifically, for our company, we anticipate a fairly steady operation throughout the first half of the coming year, possibly equaling that of 1958."

He said also that the company has full confidence in "business prospects" and will give concrete evidence of this confidence by taking another forward step in its program of improvement and modernization of plant facilities. This program will start early in January and continue through 1960, he said.

"We expect that employment will remain fairly stable," he concluded.

Thomas A. Moretti, manager of the Marion Forge Division of the Eaton Manufacturing Co., said: "We are very optimistic and expect a better year in 1959 from a general business outlook. Our company is planning a substantial expenditure in the Marion division for replacement, improvement and modernization of present equipment to increase plant efficiency and improve product quality."

"We also anticipate steadier employment for our employees as a result of the expected better business conditions during the coming year," Mr. Moretti said.

Adding to this optimistic outlook is the fact that the local division is contemplating the addition of some new products not previously forged here, he said. These new products would be for medium and heavy duty truck components, he said.

George Fleck, president of the Arco Expansion Bolt Co., was less optimistic. He said, "We do not think business will improve to any great extent in 1959. We look forward to a satisfactory year if we can be satisfied with the same level of activity as during 1958."

"It is our opinion that, should business show more improvement than we anticipate, inflation will become more severe."

He added that Arco is planning no expansion in plant or manpower during the coming year, but is planning an expansion in the variety of its products.

Jacque Jones, president of the Huber-Warco Co., said: "The year

Batista Troops Pound Fleeing Rebels in Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Government troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas Province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana, had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respite for the rebels," declared a source World Will Be Fine in '59?

WHAT WILL 1959 BRING? This seems to be the question pondered by Michael Vance, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vance of 467 Windsor St. Or maybe, using the globe as a crystal ball, he already has found out, and shudders over the fate of the world. There is one thing that can be said for certain: the year will be full of surprises. For Mike there will be a host of new experiences, a lot of fun, and maybe some falls. For the world there will be more scientific advances, some revolutions, new medical triumphs, maybe the beginning of a lasting peace. (Photo by William Snider, Star photographer.)

Day Features Bad Weather, Good Football

Drivers returning home from New Year's activities today were faced with the possibility of hazardous driving conditions throughout most of Ohio.

The forecast was, for snow, sleet, freezing rain or rain in most areas with the high temperatures not expected to reach much above freezing in this area.

As the new year approached last night, there were no serious traffic accidents reported in the Marion area and there had been only a trace of rain between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m.

With possible slippery roads in the area today, four televised football games will be a strong inducement for sports fans to remain at home.

The climax for the football fans will come at 4:45 p.m. when the Rose Bowl game will be broadcast over Channel 4. Earlier, at 12:45 p.m. on Channel 10, the Orange Bowl game will be on the air. At 1:45 p.m., Channel 4 will carry the Sugar Bowl game and at 3:30 p.m., Channel 10 will broadcast the Cotton Bowl game.

A number of other activities will be available today for those who are not gridiron fans.

Matinees are scheduled at both the Ohio and Palace theaters. The feature at the Palace beginning at 1:45 p.m. is "Geisha Boy" with

Many Problems Unsettled

New Year Is Welcomed By People of Space Age

By The Associated Press
The new space age took time out from its tensions Wednesday night to give a cheery welcome to the New Year—whatever it may bring.

The 1959 cherub found that Father Time of 1958 had left many problems unresolved, such as the continuing cold war and a looming Berlin crisis.

But it was New Year's Eve, the traditional time for gaiety and hope for better things ahead, and joy reigned as usual.

Both sides of the Iron Curtain joined in celebrating. It was party time in the Kremlin as well as in Kalamazoo.

Time Also for Prayer
In Christian countries, it was a time also for prayer, with Watch Night services contrasting solemnly with the general revelry.

President Eisenhower observed the evening quietly with relatives and friends at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

In New York, Times Square storekeepers boarded up their windows for protection against the crush of celebrators.

An annual point of interest there is a lighted globe atop a flagpole on the New York Times tower. The globe starts descending a few seconds before midnight. Its arrival at the bottom signals the precise arrival of 1959 to resounding whoops and cheers from the onlookers.

A prosperity note was reflected by New York's swankier night spots, some of which charged $60 a couple, plus tax, tips and liquor, with all reservations booked solid.

The average charge ranged around $20 to $30 a couple, and tapered down to 15-cent beers in neighborhood taverns.

Various localities in the United States had their own ways of noting the occasion.

Bangor, Maine, celebrated with a huge bonfire of discarded Christmas trees, touching off also the old lumber port's 125th anniversary observance.

Fireworks were shot off the top of Pike's Peak by the AdAman Club of Colorado Springs, which adds one member a year. The firing of muskets resounded at Cherryville, N.C., in accordance with a 150-year-old custom believed to have come to this country from Germany.

Philadelphia's celebration centered around the opening of the Penn Center ice skating rink, one similar to that in New York's Rockefeller Center.

In Moscow, the celebrating was topped by a party given in the Kremlin by Premier Nikita

Army of Men Fights To Save Community; Firebug Is Suspected

TOPANGA CANYON, Calif. (AP)—A wind driven fire, believed started by an arsonist, sped wildly through the Santa Monica Mountains Wednesday night, burning homes and forcing thousands to flee.

An estimated 50 homes and cabins have been destroyed and 3,000 acres blackened. An army of men aided by fire bombing planes fought the blaze.

The fire started Wednesday morning near Woodland Hills and swept along by gale-like winds, raced up the inland slope, over the crest and down populous Topanga Canyon to the sea.

In the canyon community of Glenwood, at least 35 structures were razed, Fire Capt. Jack Connors said.

Dozens of homes were in its path as the fire headed toward the Pacific. How many could be saved was not known, firemen said.

The blaze swept through the property of the late actor Richard Dix. His $100,000 home was saved. The Pacific Coast Highway was closed as flames raced down the hillside to its edge. Flames leaped 75 feet into the air. Beach property was endangered.

Said Asst. County Fire Chief Paul Clark: "We better catch this little firebug. He's set 20 fires in this area in the last three days. This is definitely arson."

The others were small blazes quickly controlled.

Desert Winds Rake Area
Hot, dry, desert winds have raked the area the past two days, making the brush tinder dry.

Just before noon a tremendous wall of flames roared into the canyon community of Glenwood and rolled on.

Half a dozen fire fighters were hospitalized, most for treatment of smoke inhalation.

More than 1,000 firemen and all available equipment were on the lines.

The blaze spread so swiftly and erratically the experts couldn't hope to check it. Instead they concentrated on saving structures and lives.

"There's too much wind, too low humidity and too much fire," said one fire captain.

County Youth Is Wounded in Gun Accident

A Caledonia youth was accidentally shot in the face and neck, Wednesday morning when a companion's gun discharged while he was getting into an automobile.

The sheriff's office was notified of the accident at 10:50 Wednesday morning by officials at the Marion General Hospital emergency room.

Injured was Douglas Cochran, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cochran of Caledonia. Deputies were told that Cochran and two friends, Larry Bigford and Robert Agnes, drove over to the home of Larry Belt on Rt. 30 S west of Caledonia.

The youths were going hunting, the sheriff's office reported.

Deputies said that when Belt started to enter the auto carrying the three youths, his shotgun discharged. The pellets sprayed into the car, striking Cochran.

Cochran was admitted to the hospital where officials report he is in "good" condition.

None of the other three boys was hurt, deputies said.

CHURCHILL VISITS THEATER. Tipping his hat and carrying a muf to keep out the cold, a jaunty Sir Winston Churchill leaves the Scala Theater in London. He had just seen his daughter, Sarah Churchill, play Peter Pan. Attending the performance with him were Lady Churchill and the various grandchildren of the Churchill family. (UPI Telephoto)

Predicts Advances

USSR Plans Moon Shot, Atom Planes

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union said today its scientists will be in position to send a rocket magazine depicted the bomber as around the moon in 1959 and declared the new year will see the first trials of nuclear-powered civil aircraft.

Moscow radio said the problem of nuclear reactions is high on the priority list of Soviet scientists for 1959 and beyond.

"The prospects of conquering these sources of concentrated power are closely linked with the problem of penetrating into cosmic space," the broadcast declared.

The year 1959 "will see still greater development in the field of interplanetary rockets and Sputniks," the French-language broadcast continued. "Here progress of technology and automation will without doubt make it possible to send an interplanetary rocket around the moon in 1959."

The broadcast, entitled "Soviet Science in 1959," continued: "Soviet scientists have been working a long time on the problem of efficient use of atomic energy for civil aviation and the results already obtained make it possible to state that 1959 will see the first trials in this field."

The American magazine Aviation Week said Nov. 31 that Russia had completed a nuclear-powered bomber six months before and that it had been flying in the Moscow area for at least two months.

The magazine said a number of foreign observers from countries had witnessed the test flights. The Russians never have made any comment of an official nature on the Aviation Week report. A delayed Associated Press dispatch from Moscow of a month ago had this to say: "Swift aircraft of undetermined design are spinning vapor trails high over Moscow these days. There is speculation the Russians may be using nuclear power in one or more of the mystery craft."

"Official Soviet confirmation of this possibility is lacking, although it is public knowledge that Russian designers and scientists have long been hard at work on the problem."

Dirksen Gains Support
In Bid for Senate Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican regulars rallied behind Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois in the face of an insurgent challenge to his Senate GOP floor leadership bid.

Senators Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Francis Case of South Dakota said in separate interviews they will support Dirksen in his forthcoming contest with Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Has Beall's Support

Moreover, Dirksen announced he had been authorized by Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland to say that Beall would vote for him. The Maryland Republican had been counted by Republican liberals as one of them but he did not show up Tuesday at a meeting at which eight rebels agreed upon a slate.

From other sources it was reported that Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who also had been wooed by the liberal group, has committed himself to back Dirksen.

The insurgents, who contend they form the core of Eisenhower backers in the Senate, chose Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California as their candidate for whip, or assistant leader.

They left open until a meeting next Tuesday the question of whether they will challenge other veterans in the present leadership, including Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the party's policy committee.

Dirksen said he isn't worried by the minority uprising, which the rebels said was aimed primarily at gaining a voice in the direction of Senate Republican affairs and in the formation of policies at Eisenhower's weekly meetings with GOP congressional leaders.

"I feel quite confident of my election," Dirksen said.

He said he had heard no mention of any other candidate than Kuchel for the whip's post, from which Dirksen hopes to advance to the floor leadership vacated by retiring Sen. William F. Knowland of California.

But Curtis said it is by no means a foregone conclusion that Kuchel won't have opposition from the conservative side.

Publicly Optimistic

Cooper and Kuchel were publicly optimistic about their chances of gaining a majority when the 34 GOP senators vote at an organization conference Jan. 7.

Besides Cooper and Kuchel, others present at Tuesday's meeting included Senators Prescott Bush of Connecticut, George D. Aiken of Vermont, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Jacob K. Javits of New York and Senators-elect Kenneth B. Keating of New York and Hugh D. Scott of Pennsylvania.

They previously had been pledged the support of Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas and Sen.-elect Winston Prouty of Vermont.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky has said he would support his colleague. The rebels also claimed the backing of Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, but Wiley was not available to report.

Free Taxi Service

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—The police are offering free taxi service for motorists who go to New Year parties and imbibe too much.

Town Police Chief Vincent Smith advised such drivers to leave their cars parked and to telephone police headquarters for a patrol car to take them home.

"They will be driven home—not to police headquarters," Smith emphasized.

29 Babies Quarantined

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-nine unvaccinated American babies who have arrived here from Germany since Sunday have been quarantined for 14 days because of a smallpox outbreak in Germany.

The babies are being kept company by their mothers, most of them wives of servicemen, during the detention period.

Machine Tool Industry Bids For Comeback

Looks for 1959 Boost In Output After Worst Setback Since 1930s

CLEVELAND (AP) — The machine tool industry, emerging from its most serious depression since the 1930s, looks for better business but no boom—in 1959. Shipments of machine tools—both cutting type and forming type—are estimated at 500 million dollars this year. That compares with $1,083,000,000 in 1957 and $1,195,000,000 in 1956.

Finally Starts To Rise

After remaining at a consistently low level through most of 1958, net new orders, the indicator of potential business, started perking up in the fourth quarter. The rise was a healthy 32 per cent in October compared with the previous month.

Ralph J. Kraut, president of Gidding & Lewis Machine Tool Co. of Fond du Lac, Wis., who heads the National Machine Tool Builders Assn., lists three factors that indicate a continuation of this trend.

1. "The return of business confidence. The lag in machine tool buying was not due to a lack of need. Machine tool users hesitated to make purchase commitments until they saw which way business was going. The current upturn in product sales, with resultant exhaustion of inventories, should revive plant modernization plans which have lain dormant."

2. "The imperative need of reducing production costs. This is emphasized by continuing high wage rates here, plus the threat of invasion of American markets by products made abroad... in Europe, in recent years, plant modernization, aided by accelerated depreciation allowances, has been progressing much faster than in the United States. The need for correcting this situation inevitably will stimulate domestic machine tool purchases."

3. "The accelerating program of product re-design and development has been continuing within the machine tool industry. While sales have been down, attention has been focused upon research, invention and the practical application of new principles."

Three-Month Backlog

The backlog of new orders is estimated at three months—higher than at any time in 1958—but still about a month below what the industry feels is a good figure. It had dropped to about 2½ months during the second quarter.

Looking into the crystal ball for 1959, industry sources see net new orders jumping from an estimated $300 million dollars in 1958 to around 450 million during the next 12 months.

That would be a healthy step along the road to recovery but still way down from the 643 million dollars marked up in 1957. One source said the second half of the new year should show a return to a fair level of prosperity.

To speed the recovery in the machine tool industry and increase its capacity, builders must convince plant customers they can't afford not to modernize.

An upturn in general business—seems probable—means more spending for capital equipment. The automobile industry is the key to a healthy machine tool business. With carmakers in the doldrums during 1958, they entered few orders for new machine tools.

New Demand by Detroit

The machine industry figures Detroit has worked up a pent-up demand to increase its orders for new tools on 1960 and 1961 auto models.

Space age technology is another factor. It is forcing the machine industry to search for new producing methods.

One source predicts "10 years from now almost every metalwork-ing plant in the U.S. will be using at least one production method, machine or material that doesn't exist today.

Many will be developed to solve critical aircraft and missile problems but their applications eventually will fan out to civilian use.

Not all signs are encouraging, however. Alfred V. Bodine, the association's outgoing president, says the machine tool capacity of the United States has shrunk below the margin of safety.

He says the fault is in some thinking of defense strategists in Washington who theorize the next war—if it comes—will be a 20-minute one fought only with rockets and missiles.

In such a war, the fighting must be done with weapons on hand, Bodine believes such a point of view is dangerous.

"To be properly prepared," Bodine told the association's annual meeting last month, "we should be able to produce at a moment's notice, the requisite quantity of weapons to be used in non-nuclear warfare. This sort of production requires a good many machine tools."

Foreign competition also disturbs Bodine, who asks: "Is our industry, enmeshed in the web of reciprocal trade and low foreign wage rates, to go the way of watches and bicycles?"

"Or is it, like shipbuilding and aircraft, to be regarded as a vital arm of national defense, and its capacity maintained accordingly?"

Revision of Ohio Public Utility Rate-Making Policy Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A subcommittee of the Ohio Municipal League will meet again within two weeks to draw up a proposed revision of a state statute which spells out the formula for determining a public utility's rates.

The revision will be submitted to the Legislature and, if adopted, would tend to keep future rate increases at a minimum, said Ford Pickens, Columbus Utilities director and a spokesman for the subcommittee.

The proposed revision, he said, would affect a law setting forth the formula which utilities must follow in computing their rate base—that is, the value of a utility's property on which rates are based.

The present formula, which Pickens said was favorable to the utilities, provides for depreciation to be subtracted from the reproduction costs of new equipment.

Driver Arrested

In Area Accident

BUCYRUS—One driver was arrested by state patrolmen from the Bucyrus post following investigation of two traffic accidents Wednesday.

Fred Syvrus, 62, of Hartford, Conn., was cited to appear in Upper Sandusky Municipal Court on a charge of driving left of center.

He was involved in an accident on Rt. 23 about 8 miles south of Upper Sandusky at 6 a.m. Wednesday when his car sideswiped a tractor-trailer outfit driven by Carl Clark, 31, of Columbus, patrolmen said.

Syvrus' car was demolished while extensive damage was done to the truck outfit.

The other accident happened at 2 a.m. Wednesday on Rt. 61 three miles north of Crestline when Lyle M. Palmer, 18, of Shelby, applied his brakes, hit an icy spot on the road and went off the highway. Extensive damage was done to his car, patrolmen reported.

Liu-Shao-chi Leading

In Race for Mao's Job

HONG KONG (AP)—The Moscow-trained Chinese Communist theoretician, Liu Shao-chi, appears to lead the sweepstakes on a replacement for Mao Tze-tung as president of Red China.

At least, Liu got top billing in Peiping's official press during Mao's recent absence from the capital.

A copy of Peiping's People's Daily arriving Wednesday had a seven-column picture of an agricultural conference last Friday.

Liu was in the central position of honor, flanked by Premier Chou En-lai and Marshal Chu Teh, the vice president.

Broadcasts Greetings

HINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The nation's orbiting Atlas satellite is broadcasting New Year's greetings to men of the armed services.

Brig. Gen. Eric H. F. Svensson, commander of Ft. Stewart, Ga., recorded the message that was sent to the satellite by the Ft. Stewart tracking station.

The Japanese representative in the United States was elevated to the rank of an ambassador on April 5, 1955.

Happy New Year Is for You

This year, if you never tried it before, wish yourself a Happy New Year and put your strongest convictions into it.

No one else can make 1959 happy for you, no matter how good their intentions may be. Yet, a great many Americans seem to believe their happiness in 1959 is in the hands of John Foster Dulles, Nikita Khrushchev, the U. S. Supreme Court, James R. Hoffa, or Gamal Abdel Nasser.

They sound that way when they talk about the things that make them unhappy.

A politician named Faubus in Arkansas can lower a cloud of gloom over their lives at will, they say.

They can be made distraught by revolutionary gunfire in Cuba.

A decision by the U. S. Supreme Court can throw them into despondency.

They hang on to the thread of events in France as if their golden life line ran to the base of the Eiffel Tower.

Events in California, Outer Mongolia, Pakistan and Burma loom larger on their mental horizons than birthdays and anniversaries in their households.

The mouthings of politicians playing on public prejudices as an organist plays on a pipe organ can make them roar with rage and rumble with hate.

They can be made so uneasy about what might be found under the bed in the form of danger they cannot sleep, even after they have been shown there is nothing to fear.

This has become a common state of mind. Every potential menace and present danger on earth is magnified, to make it seem immediate and imminent.

Millions of Americans have taken flight from the reality of their own lives, to look for complications and confusions in every part of the world.

They have convinced themselves they have found the ultimate reality of existence in the mid-20th century by accompanying Secretary of State Dulles to every trouble spot and staying there until he leaves for the next one.

But even Secretary Dulles, for all his preoccupation with menace and betrayal, takes time to enjoy the simplicities of life.

Like every one of the newsmen whose pronouncements and decisions are noted from day to day, he understands that the better part of life is not great international events but small personal events.

It is possible that Armageddon is nigh, that life as we have known it is about to be expunged, that the forces of darkness are going to rout the forces of light and evil will get the upper hand over virtue.

It is possible that a few people who strut back and forth through the news have become more important than the hundreds of millions who make no trouble and therefore make no news.

If you think so, 1959 looks mighty glum before it starts.

Otherwise, you can have a Happy New Year for yourself.

Busy Year Ahead in Marion

Every new year presents an interesting challenge, but 1959 gives distinct promise of being unusually eventful for Marion.

The year just past has not been an easy one, particularly from an economic standpoint.

At the depth of the recession, business here never reached the low ebb to which it fell in some cities which depend primarily upon steel manufacture and other basic industries.

On the other hand, the recovery here has been somewhat slower than the national trends.

Although the direct effect is difficult to assess, there is no question the long strike at the Marion Power Shovel Co. has been a heavy psychological drag on the comeback.

It is the sincere hope of every person in Marion that this strike can be settled soon.

Business, particularly at the retail level, showed a marked upturn here in December and there is every reason to believe an end to the strike would put the recovery in high gear.

Municipal and school board elections fall due in 1959 and this will create accelerated interest in local government.

Sewer expansion and traffic projects have been in the spotlight the last two years and will be again in 1959. The traffic plan has cleared all the local hurdles, for the moment, and if state financial assistance is forthcoming, construction for the one-way street program could begin by midsummer.

The problem posed by dwindling city finances in relation to needs could become extremely critical this year. In that regard, a municipal income tax and annexation of surrounding territory could become topics of prime importance for City Council, the administration and all affected residents.

The public school system will have a renewal of its operating levy on the ballot next fall and also will be watching closely the problem created by steady school population growth in relation to facilities.

In the county school system, a study of far-reaching importance will be made on the proposal to merge all the county schools into a single district. This was the key recommendation of a recent Ohio State University survey.

These problems, and others, make the outlook for 1959 an interesting one and developments should be watched closely on all fronts.

Happy New Year!

Seers Often Wrong

By John N. Adams

What the new year will bring—war, peace, bust, boom, a tunnel to China or a trip to the moon—is anybody's guess and everybody's guessing.

This is the time of year when prognosticating becomes a national pastime. Everybody from tea-leaf readers to tycoons and from playboys to presidents takes a fling at forecasting. It has been going on for generations.

That they are wrong as often as they are right does not deter a really determined seer. Fortunately, civilization has survived even when the gloomiest and boomiest predictions came closest to hitting the mark.

A look at some of the predictions over the past century and a half shows how wrong a pundit can be.

In one of the whoppers of 1835, John Quincy Adams said: "The Union is in most imminent danger of dissolution." That was 123 years ago. There were 24 states in the Union. Twenty-five states have been added since, the latest being Alaska.

THE DEBATE over the purchase of Alaska brought forth one of the sourest predictions of 1867.

Rep. Cadwallader C. Washburn, opposing the purchase said: "It (Alaska) will always be a source of weakness... all the evidence goes to show its inhospitable and worthless character... it is proposed to pay $7,200,000 for a country where none but malefactors will live and where we are likely to be at constant war with savages." Despite Rep. Washburn's grim warning, the territory was purchased for the $7,200,000 asking price in June, 1867.

The dawn of the auto age brought this prediction in "Horseless Age Magazine" in 1895:

"A pleasing prospect it is that rises before us in contemplating this array of horseless vehicles! From the gradual displacement of the horse in business and pleasure will come practical money saving. In cities and towns the noise and clutter of the streets will be reduced, a priceless boon to the tired nerves of this overwrought generation."

"Streets will be cleaner, jams and blockades less likely to occur and accidents less frequent, for the horse is not as manageable as a mechanical vehicle."

Now, 63 years later, motor cars kill someone every 14 minutes and injure someone every 23 seconds and a Cornell University research group estimates that safety belts could save at least 19,000 lives in the United States each year and reduce injuries by 50 per cent.

IF HE WERE still living, King George III would probably say, "I told you so," about American's "beat generation."

In 1782 the British monarch said: "Knavery is so much the striking feature of America's inhabitants that in the end it may not be an evil that they will become aliens to this kingdom." He was talking about the Revolutionary War leaders.

Today in the United States roughly 500,000 children aged 10 through 17 appear in court each year. That's about one out of every 45.

However things apparently weren't so good in England either in those early times because 13 years after King George's pronouncement, an English statesman said: "I dare not marry, the future is so uncertain," and that was before the juvenile delinquent had become a world problem.

Gloom-and-doom prophets had a field day in 19th century England. In 1868, Lord Shaftesbury said nothing could save the British Empire, a few years earlier (1849) Disraeli saw no hope whatever for industry, commerce or agriculture, and in 1806 William Pitt saw "scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair."

IN 1837, the Detroit Free Press might have lifted Pitt's prediction from context to apply it to the United States in its prediction: "All is darkness and despair. As a nation, we are at the bottom of the hill."

Just six years later, the U. S. commissioner of patents could see no hope in the future and came up with the prediction: "The advancement of the arts seems to presage the arrival of that period when human improvement must end." He had never heard of radio, television, movies, the airplane or motor cars, just to mention a few of the innovations since his time.

With the dawn of 1959, prediction-makers see unprecedented prosperity, continued high unemployment, more inflation, an uneasy peace and mounting international crises. For every bright outlook there is a dark side.

If we have learned anything from the past, we will take them all with a grain of salt. The new year will chart a course somewhere in the middle area between the stratosphere of the most optimistic and the depths of despair of the gloom-mongers.

Happy New Year, everyone!

Nuts for Short

By Martin R. Miller

What this country needs is something to prevent people from writing foolish letters because the postage rate is low.

In some quarters, it has always been a mystery as to why the United States should brag about its low postage rate, which after all is simply an invitation to people to make fools of themselves.

Anyone with a pencil, a piece of paper, and an envelope and four cents (maybe five cents next year) is a candidate for prize booty.

You send in a clipping promising unpeeped savings in dollars on some sort of deal, and six months later the sheriff comes around and repossesses the stuff because you couldn't keep up the payments.

Almost any day now, newspapers will quote juicy excerpts from what the beautiful actress Miss Big Title wrote to some gun-toting gangster, simply because it cost only four cents.

Many a courtroom has thrilled to the reading of cheap postage letters in a breach of promise suit. And how many untold millions have been paid surreptitiously in attempts to suppress such letters?

This just scratches the surface. The list is endless—phony stocks and investment deals, matrimonial agencies, angry letters to the editor, thoughtless letters to loved ones and so on.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By George Lichty

"What's to welcome in the New Year anyhow? It'll just bring in the bills for the stuff we bought in the old one!"

There has been the customary bad-mouthing of 1958 for its shortcomings, such as its failure to bring peace, its less-than-perfect weather and the inability of consumers to stay even with wage-boosters and profit-takers.

This ingratitude is not deserved.

All things considered, 1958 was a good year.

I, personally, am grateful for the privilege of watching football games on television, which is the only acceptable way to watch them. Has anyone ever actually been comfortable watching a football game from a stone ledge, or perched on some narrow boards?

I am grateful for Cyrus Eaton who, having attained great age with all his faculties intact, dares to look down the throats of certain public officials on certain policy matters they would prefer not to have discussed with a view to questioning their judgment, which on other things has been shakier than a house trailer in a windstorm.

I am grateful for the continuation of the main reliance of popular government, which is the boiling up from the bottom of the melting pot of the human ingredients that will replace those which either have been skimmed off the top, or diluted and used up.

I am grateful for my fellow countrymen who demonstrate by deeds, rather than make excuses with language or divert with oratory, because year in and year out—including the year 1958—they continued to do some of the most astounding things imaginable, such as going across the arctic in a submarine.

I am grateful because in 1958 the people we hire to protect us against goons put Johnny Dio in jail temporarily, thereby proving they had not completely lost the knack of doing what they are paid for.

I am grateful for plausible entertainers like Dinah Shore, who makes me feel as if she is doing what comes naturally, instead of giving me the impression she is putting on an act that is a little embarrassing for her and me, too.

I am grateful for the assorted goops, jellies and sprays that make it possible for chronic sinus congestives to get a whiff of air occasionally and sometimes to breathe through both intakes when conditions are ideal.

I am grateful for the men on the U. S. Supreme Court who insist on interpreting the Constitution the same way for everybody, including Americans whose skins are not the same color as mine.

I am grateful for sunrises, and sunsets, for roses, strong, hot coffee and cold, crystal well water to drink when thirsty.

I am grateful for books to read, music to hear and grace and beauty to admire. I am grateful for all the everyday miracles we are permitted to see and profit from in our daily lives.—for people who refuse to take "Yes" for an answer—for jokes and incongruities that make me laugh—and for having had one more year to enjoy all the things I was grateful for in 1958.

What We Don't Know

By Frank Tripp

Another year everything coming up again to face, survive and conquer. Something like the hundred billionth year—the one we will call 1959.

How wonderful and good that we cannot see clearly into it or be sure of living through it. If man could do this there could be world chaos, revolution, perhaps annihilation of the human race by Candelmas day. Not the Utopia that the hopeful picture.

The sure losers, knowing what lies ahead, with nothing to lose, would shoot, the works and end civilization. Nothing could more certainly destroy mankind than unmistakable knowledge of his fate.

How often we hear one say, "If I only knew exactly how long I will live." He means that then he could perfectly plan his life. If all men knew, the years of life would be a perpetual nightmare of dread and fear to half of humanity.

THE JOKER that defeats this "know all" business is that everybody would know everything. You couldn't clean up on a cheap stock that will be worth double in a year, because the guy who owns knows it too, and he would not sell.

You couldn't unload a sure loser for the same reason. You couldn't win a dime on a horse race because everybody knows what horse will win. There's no reason to play the World Series; only the best sellers would find publishers; the sure-fire hits find producers; the goriest mystery and Western make TV.

Anyway, how could there be any TV? Everybody would know the best soap powder, the best filter, the best lipstick, the best program, the best newspaper, the best everything.

The country would starve to death; there'd be no way for half of the people to earn a living.

This is the craziest thing that anybody ever wrote. Yet it pictures what man secretly wishes. He strives, guesses, gambles, wars to outwit the future. It all amounts to his wish to see into it—which would bring his destruction.

Civilization exists upon what it does not know and strives to fathom. The more man learns, the nearer he comes to his own extinction. Should he completely solve the mystery of life, he will have lost it. Already he has lost its simplicity and peace.

BUT, YOU SAY, while granting it impossible, suppose we knew that Russia would bring nuclear war next April; couldn't we prevent it? How else than by starting one earlier? Besides, if we knew, Russia also would know, and could have done it last April.

The fallacy of the whole absurd idea of seeing into the future and predetermining destiny is that it assumes monopoly of omnipotence—the power and wisdom of a Supreme Being. Or the power that savages attribute to the sun, moon or idols.

If science and man's ingenuity ever explains, harnesses, duplicates and accounts for every wonder of nature, logically and understandably to anybody, still unexplained will be: How come the smart aleck can't get the future into a test tube or a Univac?

So far, man's destiny remains under the heading of God's business. Which is the only proof I need that there is a God.

News of Other Years

40 YEARS AGO — Poland was preparing for a military campaign along her entire Russian frontier.

Public charges that 70,000 members of the American Expeditionary Forces at the embarkation camp at Brest were existing under "such intolerable wretchedness and misery that one marvels at the patients and discipline that keep them from breaking into open rebellion," resulted in Secretary Baker directing Maj. Gen. Harbord, in command of the service supply of the A.E.F., to make a personal inspection of the camp.

After four years of war, the dawn of the new year took on a new significance and was celebrated in both America and Europe with impressive ceremonies befitting the occasion.

20 YEARS AGO — A 10-pound baby girl born to Mr. and Mrs. F. Glenn at their home at 559 Decatur St. was the first child to be born in Marion in 1939. The baby arrived at 9:04 a.m.

Republican members of the incoming 93rd General Assembly threatened to overthrow 41 appointments confirmed by the Democrats in the final minutes of the outgoing legislature.

As the new year began, Dr. F. C. Smith began his duties as the new 8th District Congressman. Russell C. Snare as mayor, Urban F. Zachman as commissioner and Earl E. Thomas as a state representative. Walter S. Guthrie was appointed to replace Harry L. Brookshire as city clerk. Mr. Brookshire went to Washington as secretary to Dr. Smith.

10 YEARS AGO — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, commuted to prison terms the death sentences of eight German war criminals who had won last minute reprieves from the gallows.

A public demonstration of a new $27,000 American LaFrance aerial ladder, firetruck was held at the Mark St. fire station.

The Once Over

The United States will issue a new penny in a few weeks. Why it thought a new one necessary is not clear, as the demand for a penny of any type has fallen off to a point where few people want one. (Perhaps it's the souvenir craze.)

The words "One Cent" will be retained on coin, but "Wanna Bet?" added in parenthesis. Lincoln's head will be removed and replaced by bust of the inventor of the parking meter. We asked a government coinage chief about the situation and he said, "Not even children will stoop to pick up the old penny any more. We thought if we issued a flashier one, the kids might not get so indignant if offered a penny to do a trivial errand."

By H. I. Phillips

"Had you thought of an outer-space penny?" we asked.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"A penny with Cape Canaveral on one side and a spaceship or intercontinental rocket on the other. This would have special appeal to the kids just now," we said.

The man said it was pretty futile to try to restore interest in a penny and that he was concentrating on nickels, dimes and quarters in the hope people might have some slight regard for them. He favored taking off the inscription "E Pluribus Unum," as too many people think it means "No good except in cargo lots."

"How about the dime?"

Marionite Gives Edison Generator To Fenn College

A real grandfather among electrical generators, one believed built by Thomas Edison, was slated to leave Marion today for a place of honor in the Fenn College museum at Cleveland.

The old time direct current generator, a bulky, cumbersome affair compared with today's modern generators, was donated to the museum by former Mayor Harold F. Robinson of the Robinson Electric Supply Co. at 243 N. Greenwood St.

He obtained the 400-pound Edison creation about 10 years ago from a salvage contractor who was cleaning out discontinued electrical equipment from the Huber plant on N. Greenwood St.

A date stamped on the device indicates that it was built in 1882. Mr. Robinson reports. It was rated at about three kilowatts output and was used by Huber when the company maintained its own electric generating plant. Mr. Robinson said.

He said that a generator of the same size today could produce 7 to 10 times as much electrical power because of higher armature speeds and greater efficiency.

Representatives of the college museum were to pick up the generator at Mr. Robinson's place of business at 11 a.m. today to truck it back to Cleveland where it will be placed on display after restoration and cleaning is completed.

Pope Holds Audience

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII received 7,000 persons in a New Year's Eve general audience.

He addressed the audience briefly, taking as his theme the meaning of Christmas and the New Year.

GRAVE SIMPLY MARKED

The grave of Gen. George S. Patton Jr., in the military cemetery at Hamm, Luxembourg, is marked only by a simple white cross like all the other American heroes resting there. Only difference is that Gen. Patton's cross has four small golden stars to denote his rank.

Miss Linda Ann Vail was united in marriage with James F. Layton in a ceremony held Friday, Dec. 12, in the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Layton is the daughter of Mrs. Geraldine Vail McKeehen of 249 Kensington Pl., and Mr. Layton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Layton of 10 Eckley Dr.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Alan Vail, wore a gown of white velvet with a Sabrina neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A fitted bodice topped the straight floor length skirt which was gathered to a bustle.

SHE WORE gold leaf earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white poinsettias and holly. Her floor length veil of French illusion was held by a crown of white holly.

Miss Judy Ann Harruff, maid of honor, wore a red velvet gown with a Sabrina neckline and bell-shaped skirt. She wore a crown of green holly and carried a white muft decorated with sprigs of holly.

Miss Geraldine Higham, bridesmaid, wore an identical dress in green velvet. Her accessories were the same.

Ring bearers for the ceremony were Cecelia Ann Brown and Brian Lee Vail. Cecelia wore a dress of white velvet and long white stockings. She also wore a crown of green holly.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. McKeehen wore a pink lace dress with a matching jacket and matching accessories. Mrs. Layton wore a royal blue velvet dress.

THE RECEPTION was held at the Highway Hotel which was decorated in red and green with large red bells. The wedding cake was trimmed with holly. Mrs. Alan Vail and Mrs. Cecil Brown served at the reception.

For her going away ensemble, Mrs. Layton wore a powder blue wool suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white bells and holly. The couple traveled to New York City for the honeymoon.

They are at home at 1014 Mt. Vernon Ave. Mrs. Layton, a graduate of Harding High School, is employed at the Highway Hotel. Mr. Layton, also a Harding graduate, is employed by the Erie Railroad.

1958 Revenue Climbs

Ohio's Turnpike Report Shows Increased Usage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Turnpike Commission reported today its 1958 operations today with these contrasting notes:

1. In 1958 Turnpike revenue was $1,068,000 greater than in 1957.
2. In 1958, the super east-west toll road suffered the worst accident in its history (seven killed in one smashup in November).

Actually, the Turnpike has an exceptional accident-free record and the disheartening crash could not be blamed on the safety of the road itself. It was caused by a motorist who somehow got on the wrong side of the divided highway.

Part of National System James W. Shocknessy, chairman of the commission, said in a year-end statement that the revenue report for 1958 reflected "the continuing incorporation of the Turnpike into the nation's transportation system."

He added: "The steadily increasing use of the Turnpike by commercial vehicles during 1958 was particularly gratifying. The successively greater revenues of 1958 and previous years constitute an indication of how long it takes for such a facility to become fully incorporated into the economic system."

"The favorable revenue experience of 1958 meant also that the commission again covered its commitments with a margin to spare. The estimated gross revenue of $20,825,000 for the year compared with total commitments of $19,101,000 made up of the operating budget of $4,827,000, interest for 1958 on Ohio Turnpike revenue bonds in the amount of $10,595,000, and reserve for debt service, requirements totaling $3,679,000."

Financial Soundness Noted Shocknessy said the status of the commission's reserves for debt service and non-recurring maintenance provides "another reflection of the financial soundness of the Ohio Turnpike after more than three years of operation."

The chairman said that during 1958 also, a much more satisfactory level of service to motorists by operators of turnpike restaurants was attained and the paving of the 16 service plazas was completed.

The walrus, whose deadly tusks extend as much as two feet, is really an affectionate animal.

Holiday Eve Is Double Affair For President

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — It was a double feature New Year's Eve for President Eisenhower and his family.

With their grandchildren and a few friends, the President and his wife hailed the start of a new year and also the beginning of granddaughter Susan's eighth year.

The President joined in the combined celebration after conferring four hours with two aides who came from Washington with a draft of the State of the Union address, which Eisenhower will deliver to Congress Jan. 9.

Eisenhower also worked on a portrait of Thomas Jefferson—a sort of bipartisan painting, since Jefferson is hailed by the Democrats as a founder of their party.

Susan, 7 Wednesday, arrived at her grandparents' farm estate by auto, with sisters Barbara Anne, 9, and Mary Jean, 3, to join 10-year-old brother David and the grandparents for the holiday. Her parents, Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower, aren't here for the weekend.

Devotions were by Mrs. Evelyn Campbell and Mrs. Maxine Cochran presided for business. A program was under direction of Mrs. Mae Massie. Christmas readings were given by Mrs. Clayton Steen, Mrs. Mary Breittigan, Mrs. Evelyn Thacker, Mrs. Betty Washburn and Mrs. Massie. Entertainment was conducted by Mrs. Mildred Burley and prizes went to Mrs. Lillian Washburn and Mrs. Betty Washburn. A gift exchange was held. Mrs. Frances Randall was a guest.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I'm a slightly plump housewife, age 37. Our three children are in school all day and I love to putter around the house. I put up strawberry jam, read good books and even take a nap if I feel like it.

I worked for six years after we married and it's a treat to be able to stay at home and live a leisurely life.

Most of the women in this neighborhood have part-time jobs. Some work from 9 till 5. The other day a friend told me of a part-time job in the neighborhood book store and the salary was $30 a week. My husband thought it would be a "good idea" because we could use the extra money.

I turned it down, saying I preferred to put up with the sun-split curtains and rather worn furniture and just go along enjoying my unhurried and uncomplicated life.

Am I crazy because I have no burning desire for wall-to-wall carpeting and a glassed-in sun porch? Tell me the truth. — C.C.S.

Crazy? Not at all!

If you like your life as it is why change it? I salute you—your strawberry jam and the sun-split curtains. The world is filled with people who are knocking themselves to pieces to own "better" things. Often they learn too late that the price was higher than they had anticipated—and it wasn't worth it.

People can live on less—when they have more to live for.

Farm Surplus

Dear Ann: I've been reading your column for a long time and I've noticed many letters from city people who complain because relatives drop in on them all the time. They seem to think if people live a distance and their place is hard to get to, they'd be safe from mooching friends and relatives.

I'd like to tell you what our experience has been.

My husband is a farmer at heart. He farmed the first five years of our marriage. We'd have made a go of it if it hadn't been for our "friends" and relations. We didn't have one Sunday to ourselves in five years. We never knew who'd show up next. Often three and four carloads would pull up—each from a different city. "Farmers always have something to eat," they'd say. "You can always go out and kill a pig or a drive.

cow." (Did you ever hear of such nonsense?)

Vacation time, nieces and nephews would be sent to us for "fresh country air."

Every summer I had kids sleeping on feather quilts on the floor. They weren't interested in helping with the chores or lending a hand in the house. All they wanted was fresh air, afternoons in the hammock and Auntie's pies.

We worked on a very slim margin of profit and finally had to give up the farm and move to the city. The moochers made the difference between success and failure.

Now, after a few years of city life, the children are begging to go back to the farm. My husband is undecided. How can we protect ourselves from people who make a summer resort out of a farmer's home? — U.D.T.

You have a very good writing arm (nine pages) — why not use a little of that energy where it will do some good? Tell your friends and relatives you're returning to the soil on a new basis: NO GUESTS WELCOME unless invited.

Rival Camps Issue Blasts

Senate's Forces Primed For Antifilibuster Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the big battle over filibuster control soon to begin, rival Senate camps Wednesday fired off some heated blasts and conflicting victory predictions.

On the first day of the new Congress — Jan. 7—a bipartisan group of Northern and Western senators plans a move to change Senate rules so as to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

Southern Democratic senators—who in the past have used the tactic of unlimited debate to block civil rights legislation—are primed to fight long and hard.

Sees Tough Struggle

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-IL), a leader of the antifilibuster forces, said his side will win, but only after a tough struggle.

Dixie senators predicted they would defeat the antifilibuster

If you haven't the backbone to do this, I suggest you stay in the city. It will save you expenses—both ways.

Confidentially

TO CARRIE: I have never supported inter-faith dating. Stick to your own. Marriage presents enough problems without manufacturing more.

TO HORACE: Bermuda shorts on the street for MEN? UGH! The knee-cap is the ugliest part of the human anatomy. Why parade it?

TO MARTHA: Tell him if he isn't old enough to ask his mother for his bank book he isn't old enough to get married. A man 28 years of age who gives mama his check and lets her "manage his money" is a poor marriage prospect.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Marion Star enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Outlook Brighter by Year-End

Business Rise Expected To Continue During '59

By The Associated Press
Good business in 1959. Possibly a boom in 1960.

That's the business picture at the end of 1958—the year that saw the third post-World War II recession breathe its dying gasp.

Bankers, merchants, manufacturers and economists expect the recovery from recession which started last April to continue in the new year—but not at a whirlwind pace.

Some see 1959 as a transition or bridge to a new boom in 1960. But forecasts of a 1960 boom are hedged with an impressive array of "ifs," "buts," and "may-be's."

Based on the predictions of those who usually make good guesses, here's what you can look for in the year ahead:

Business generally will rise to new peaks. Gross national product—the total output of goods and services—may reach an annual pace of 460 to 470 billion dollars vs. 450 billions at the end of 1958.

Living costs will hold steady for a few months, then resume their upward climb. The government may find it difficult to hold inflationary forces in check. By the end of 1959 your dollar will have lost a little more of its buying power.

Don't count on any major tax reduction.

Industrial production will get back into high gear, unless a steel strike upsets the apple cart. Autos will set the pace. U. S. factories should roll out more than 5½ million new cars in 1959. That's far short of the nearly 8 million produced in 1955 but a kin-sized gain over the 4½ million built in 1958.

Jobs won't keep up with the rise in production—in today's modernized, highly efficient, automated factories fewer people turn out more work. Unemployment will continue to be a problem. There may be nearly five million Americans on the "jobless rolls in January and February.

Things will get better as warmer weather permits more outdoor work, but not as fast as many economists would like.

It will be a big year for construction. Housing starts will probably match the 1958 total of about 1,100,000—unless home buyers are frightened off by tight mortgage credit and high interest rates. Building costs will keep on going up.

Retailers are betting on a slow but steady rise in consumer buying. Department store sales in the next six months are expected to top the first half of 1958 by 4 or 5 per cent. Even during the recession months of early 1958, store sales held at a high level.

Consumers have not been panicked by recession talk. Chances are they'll loosen up when they're convinced good times are here to stay.

Farmers—just winding up a boom year—may find their incomes down a bit in 1959. Prices of crops and livestock are heading lower and costs of running a farm are up. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says the "realized net income" of farmers—what's left after expenses—will be down 5 per cent on average from 1958.

On balance it looks like a good year, but not an easy year. Rather, 1959 shapes up as a year of challenge.

Wedding Ring Returned After 44-Year Period

PASSAIC, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. William Gear recovered her wedding ring—on her 44th anniversary.

She had lost it in a wood pile a month after her wedding after she had taken it off to split kindling. Her husband bought her a new one, but it wasn't quite the same. Her family surprised her at the anniversary party by presenting the ring, found recently when ground was being cleared near the woodshed.

Hypnosis Not Guarantee Of Truth, Expert Insists

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Hypnosis is far from being a "truth serum," according to Dr. Seymour Hershman of Chicago, secretary of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis.

"In fact, a patient can lie better in a trance," says Dr. Hershman.

Food Industry Boom Carried Through 1958

Increased Output Big Factor in Shoring Up Weakening Economy

By R. P. WATSON
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—America's steadily expanding food industry took the 1958 recession in stride. The industry did so well, in fact, that it helped the over-all economy through increased output of food products, more purchases of farm goods and higher weekly earnings of food processing employees, says Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc.

What's more, he added, the industry plans an increase of 7 per cent in 1959 on expenditures for running about 600 million dollars a year.

Retail food store sales in the first 10 months rose about 7 per cent, compared with a decline of about 1 per cent for all retail stores, Willis said. Over-all food consumption — including restaurants and institutions — rose to about 75 billion dollars from 71 billion last year, he estimated.

The GMA head predicted expenditures will reach 79 billion dollars in 1959 and may hit the 100-billion-dollar mark by 1965.

He added, however, that profit per dollar of sales from a representative sampling of 89 food companies shrank to 2.7 cents from 2.8 cents in 1957. The figures compared with 4.1 cents in 1946 and 4.6 cents in 1958.

Government cost of living figures showed that food costs rose from 118.2 of the 1947-49 index in January to 119.7 in October, although part of the increase generally was attributed to ruinous growing weather in Florida and California fruit and vegetable areas.

Dun & Bradstreet's food index, which represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods, in general use, exceeded the comparable year-ago figure by 1.1 to 9.7 per cent every week until early December. If lower wholesale prices continue and are passed along at the retail level, this may indicate cheaper food in 1959.

This view is supported by an Agricultural Department report predicting most foods will be much more abundant and a bit cheaper next year.

Gov. O'Neill Appoints Three to State Boards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Leslie W. Buehler, Dayton Democrat, is a new member of the State Board of Accountancy.

Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill appointed him Wednesday for a term ending Sept. 25, 1961, subject to Ohio Senate confirmation.

Other appointments included: Ezra Welton, Columbus insurance man, to the State Housing Board for a term ending Dec. 21, 1963.

Dean Laura E. Rosnagel of Cincinnati University's College of Nursing and Health to the State Board of Nursing Education and Registration. She is a registered nurse.

Mrs. Ethel Gesue of Warren, a licensed practical nurse, retained to the State Board of Nursing Education and Registration.

Both terms expire Dec. 31, 1963. The board by law is composed of five registered nurses and three licensed practical nurses.

Woman Killed in Crash

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A Harrison County woman died Wednesday when an automobile driven by her husband and another man collided head-on about a mile west of here.

Mrs. Bertha Nuens, 70, of Harrisville, died in the crash on U.S. 40.

The cars were driven by her husband, Robert, 77, and Albert Lodge, 34, of St. Clairsville. Both men were taken to Martins Ferry City Hospital, where their injuries were reported serious.

Better Missiles, Fewer GIs, More Crises Is Outlook for 1959

Defense Posture Improves With Progress on Weapons

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Affairs
Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States in 1959 will increase its ability to fight a big missile war. Whether it also will be prepared equally for coping with actual or threatened little wars—like 1958's Middle East and Formosa Strait crises—continues a subject of debate in the Pentagon and in Congress.

As 1958 approached its end, the military succeeded in firing an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile over the full 6,000-mile distance.

Before 1959 is over, the Air Force expects to have at least two ICBM launching bases ready for use and technically trained units to fire the long range missiles.

Encouraging Progress
There is hope but not certainty that the weapons themselves will be "operational" during 1959. But the fact that an ICBM has been sent the full distance does not mean the Atlas can now be delivered to troops. Much more work remains to be done in refining the guidance system to a point of complete reliability—to the state of perfection where the missile will take off at the press of a button, fly 6,000 miles and hit within a 30-mile circle. Defense Secretary Neil McElroy said recently that "we are coming closer to the time of operational capability for the Atlas," but he didn't specify the time.

In the field of intermediate range ballistic missiles, the new year will find the American military much further along. The first Thor IRBM has been set in position in England, others are following.

The bright prospects in the missile field does not mean that the manned bomber will disappear from the American arsenal in 1959 or even for years after that. Bombers like the B52 heavy and the B47 medium will continue to be the backbone of the Strategic Air Command next year.

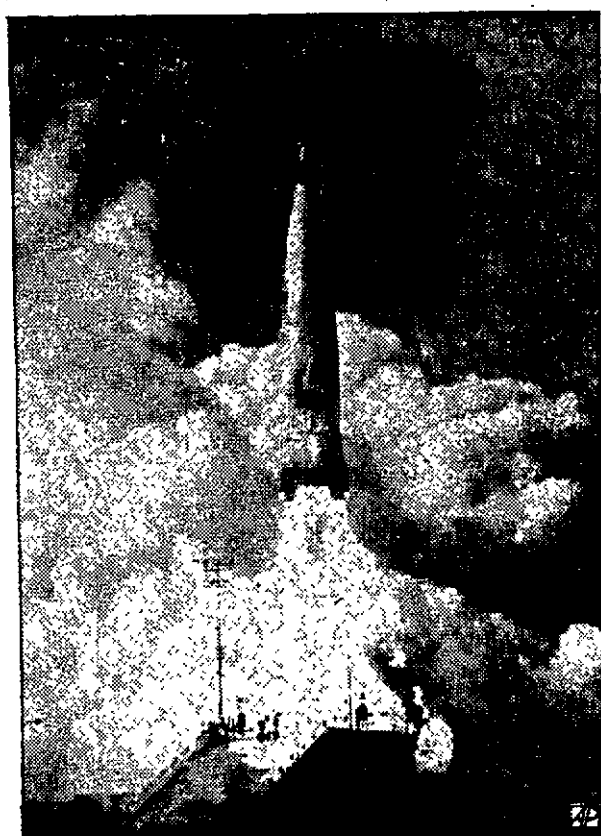

But the B52s will begin to get a new lethal punch during the year. Into them will go equipment for launching the "Hound Dog" missile. That new missile totes a nuclear warhead, and can be launched from a bomber flying as much as 400 miles outside a heavily defended target zone.

Chance for Atom Plane
This spring the first nuclear-powered Polaris missile firing submarine will be launched. It is one of nine planned. The goal is to have the first submarine and the first missiles ready for trials, as a complete unit, in 1960.

There appears to be a chance that the Air Force will start preliminary flight testing of an atomic powered plane—a feat which some recent reports say Russia already has accomplished.

All of these things are tools for massive, all-out nuclear war. What might the military do in 1959 about augmenting its capabilities for fighting smaller localized conflicts?

One immediate answer seems to be there will be fewer fighting men for heading off or winning little wars. By next June 30 the manpower strength of the armed forces will be about 70,000 less than now. The heavier part of the cut will be in Army strength. The Army brass contends this reduces the capability for limited war action, but indicates it will not make an issue of the matter. However, some Congress members may challenge the administration decision when the lawmakers meet again in January.

MORE MISSILES. American ability to retaliate in an all-out war took a giant stride forward late in November when an Atlas intercontinental missile was successfully fired from Cape Canaveral to a target area 6,300 miles away. It's the biggest in a fantastically expensive family of ballistic weapons.

LESS MANPOWER. Efforts to hold down defense spending mean cuts in conventional forces. Some claim this will seriously affect U. S. ability to handle "brushfire" emergencies, such as last summer's crisis in Lebanon, settled only after battle-ready U. S. Marines swept ashore in force.

New Hardship Plans Offered For Argentina

Frondizi Takes Steps To Cure Economical Troubles of Country

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina today faced two years of austerity in an effort to recover prosperity burned up by living beyond her income.

President Arturo Frondizi outlined the hardship program in a nationwide broadcast this week. He said it would mean higher prices, less meat and consumer goods, fewer government jobs and more free enterprise.

Devalues Peso
Frondizi in effect devalued the peso by freeing it from exchange controls to find its own level. It had been fixed at 18 to the dollar but traded unofficially at 68. The change will increase prices of imported goods and eventually of domestic goods.

At the same time a 329-million-dollar aid program for Argentina was announced in Washington. The money is being supplied by the International Monetary Fund, which had urged freeing the peso as a necessary step to economic recovery, and by three U. S. government agencies and 11 private banks.

Peron Extravagance Cited
Argentina, once a prosperous exporter of wheat and beef, began living beyond her means under dictator Juan Peron in the late 1940s. To appease the workers, he kept raising wages until Argentina was eating up much of the surplus she had previously exported to pay for industrial goods.

The workers still are a powerful political factor which provincial governments have hesitated to cross since Peron was ousted by a military coup in 1955. But mounting foreign debts and the inability of Argentina to modernize herself without further outside help forced action by Frondizi, who was elected last February.

Youngster Faces Long Wait Till Time To Vote

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A man took his infant son with him to vote in the Arizona primary. He was greeted by long lines of waiting voters.

An election official spotted the pair and told the father: "He doesn't look old enough to vote, but he may be by the time you get into the voting booth."

New Canadian City Hall Gets Gift From Britain

WINDSOR, England (AP)—This Berkshire town is sending an oak door to Windsor, Ont., for incorporation in the new city hall being built there. The door, carved from Windsor forest oak, will bear the Windsor coat of arms and the inscription "in token of unity."

IMPORTED NURSES

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Flower Hospital has imported three British nurses, even paying their passage to America. Hospital Administrator Victor Bjork said the English nurses are particularly valuable because they are willing to live at the hospital and be available for emergency duty at all times. American girls, he said, are reluctant these days to live on the hospital grounds.

Science Picture Will Be Filled With Rockets, More Satellites

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

Rockets in 1959 will blast open the doors to human space travel. Once a month and often, U. S. satellites weighing up to 1,300 pounds or more are scheduled to zoom into space carrying mice, monkeys and instruments to pave the way for man.

These launchings will show how to protect man in orbit, and how to recover safely the satellite capsule in which he rides.

Some experts predict the Soviets will actually send a man up and bring him home within the year. In 1958, the Soviets announced two main achievements, both pointing toward early human space flight. In May they launched Sputnik III, weighing 3,000 pounds, a veritable cosmic laboratory equipped with a variety of instruments to measure conditions in space. In August, they lofted two dogs 283 miles high inside a rocket, and parachuted them safely back.

Characteristically, the Soviets tell nothing about advance plans. But surely they have high adventures and surprises in mind.

Lead Narrowed
Making up some lost ground in the space age, U. S. rocket men in 1958 successfully launched three Explorer satellites and one tiny Vanguard. The Air Force tried three shots at the moon, one wheeling 79,000 miles from earth, and the Army launched one which climbed 66,654 miles into space before falling victim to the earth's gravity and plummeting back.

Russia also is expected to try to hit or orbit the moon, and perhaps try to do so without success in 1958.

Both countries hint at space probes aimed at Venus or Mars, or racing out at such high speed that they become little manmade planets circling the sun.

Planned are satellites equipped with TV systems to see weather in the making on the earth below, or to engage in military surveillance—the beginnings of space stations and satellites serving as global communications networks. Special, sensitive instruments aboard satellites will extend the rich new knowledge being won concerning space.

The prime discovery by satellites in 1958 was the curious band of unsuspected radiation ballooning like a doughnut high above the earth. It appears lethal to man, unless he is given protection by shielding. Coming satellites will learn its extent, and more about its meaning.

New Factor

This radiation band is a new factor in gaining a clearer understanding of the electromagnetic forces in space and on the sun. Such forces certainly have effects upon the earth, probably in influencing our weather.

Part of this new understanding was won through the massive scientific study known as the International Geophysical Year. Major aspects of this worldwide cooperative study will continue as the International Geophysical Cooperation—1959.

Our sun, kept under almost continuous surveillance, yielded secrets about its X-ray emissions, new concepts of magnetic triggers in storms on the sun's face, of solar effects on earth. Scientists gained new evidence that the sun's outer tenuous envelope seemingly embraces the earth itself, and that the earth's blanket of air extends to higher altitudes than suspected.

A new kind of astronomy—ultraviolet astronomy—appeared in 1958, to gaze revealingly at the sun and stars with ultraviolet-sensitive eyes. And rockets soared up above obscuring clouds to see the sun during an eclipse.

Coming in 1959 are balloon flights, equipped with telescopes, rising above much of the earth's atmosphere for clearer photographs of the sun and Mars. These pictures could resolve the mystery of Martian "canals."

The United States took initial steps toward using atomic energy for space rockets, and Russia reported already flying an atom-powered airplane. Nuclear scientists cleared up a puzzle about the makeup of the nucleus or heart of atoms.

Congress Will See Democrats Getting Set for '60 Campaign

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats take over top-heavy command of Congress in January for a year of decision likely to have heavy bearing on their chances for regaining the White House in 1960. Disorganized Republicans, squeezed into their smallest minority corner since the days of the New Deal, face a sharp uphill climb.

The sweeping Democratic election victories presented the party with some new responsibilities and accentuated some old problems.

With majorities approaching 2-1 in both houses, the Democrats are likely to find the average voter is going to hold them much more responsible than in the past for the condition in which the country finds itself in 1960.

The Democrats will be writing their record for 1960 at a time when their serious party division over civil rights has been spotlighted by the election of liberals likely to be much more demanding of action than some of those they defeated.

This adds up to additional difficulties for Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who is among those being mentioned as a possible candidate for the party's presidential nomination two years hence. Johnson has said he doesn't see any need for new civil rights measures now. Other Democratic senators who are viewed as potential presidential or vice presidential timbers: Kennedy of Massachusetts, Symington of Missouri, Humphrey of Minnesota, and Gore and Kefauver of Tennessee.

Lacking a congressional forum, Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Gov.-elect Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California can be expected to find plenty of opportunities on the job and elsewhere to advance their possible candidacies.

On the Republican side, Vice President Nixon leads the much more abbreviated field available for the GOP's top nomination. Because of his handsome victory in New York against the general Democratic tide, Gov.-elect Nelson A. Rockefeller has been elevated into the ranks of those who might be available for top place on the Republican ticket.

Soviet Union Will Probe For Weaknesses in West

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The next two years threaten to build up the most dangerous period of crises the world has known in a decade.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, having finally achieved total power in Moscow, is clearly determined to expand the frontiers of Communist authority.

Probing pressures against the defensive system held by the United States and its Allies are his major tactic for seeking a weak spot through which Soviet power may spread. The successive emergencies of 1958 dramatized the pattern. They provide, as the new year begins, a basis of forecast for things to come.

Several reasons bearing directly upon the nature and conduct of the East-West conflict have persuaded high officials in Washington that the next two years may be of crucial importance.

Balance Shifting

Foremost among these is the shifting balance of military power between the Communist bloc and the West. The balance was badly upset on Oct. 4, 1957, when Russia launched man's first earth satellite and thus demonstrated its ability to fire an intercontinental ballistic missile. The United States did not catch up, with Explorer I, until Jan. 31, 1958. Khrushchev is now working on a long range campaign to make the Soviet Union industrially and militarily superior to the United States.

Secretary of State Dulles told associates that Khrushchev could be expected to embark on a diplomacy of probing for weakness, division and lack of resolution in the West. His forecast was grimly borne out by the 1958 crises in the Middle East, the Far East and Germany.

What makes the next two years particularly risky, however, is the fact that the United States and therefore the whole system of anti-Communist alliances it leads will be under the direction of a lame duck administration. One of the certainties of international life now is that the Eisenhower-Dulles direction of U. S. foreign policy will come to an end on or before Jan. 21, 1961. This is a circumstance which contributes to political weakness and, given the Democratic majority in Congress, puts extraordinary importance upon maintaining a bi-partisan base for the conduct of foreign affairs.

Form Unpredictable

While the aggressive nature of Khrushchev policies and the defensive, wait and see attitude of the West are unquestioned in high quarters here, the exact form by which the Soviet chief will seek to profit from his initiative is less predictable. If it follows the 1958 pattern he will combine the skillful use of war threat and peace hope, sometimes threatening a conflict over Berlin or Formosa or some Middle Eastern hot spot and at other times urging international conference and feeding hopes of compromise for peace.

Khrushchev has shown he is capable of very rapid change of pace. Early in 1958 he was bombarding President Eisenhower with letters pressing for a summit conference. By mid-year, however, after a sudden and mysterious journey to Peking during the Middle East crisis, Khrushchev scuttled all summit prospects and concentrated on threatening Sputnik diplomacy.

The Quemoy-Formosa crisis followed the Middle East uproar, beginning on Aug. 23. As the United States and Nationalist China refused to give way under pressure, there were widespread fears of at least a limited war over Quemoy.

It was the second time in a short space that Khrushchev had whipped up troubled waters with the evident purpose of spreading fear. Then from the Far East the center of international tensions suddenly shifted on Nov. 10 to Berlin which, 10 years earlier, had been the scene of the first great test of strength between Russia and the Western Allies. Khrushchev announced that the time had come to end the occupation of Berlin and that he intended to turn over occupation functions to the East German Communist government.

London, Washington and Paris, as well as the West German government at Bonn, were immediately alarmed by fears of a new Berlin blockade. They declared their determination not to be driven out of Berlin.

Khrushchev, who never seems to lose the advantages which come with maintaining the initiative in international relations, then suddenly granted a six-month breathing spell by announcing that he was willing to wait that long while negotiating to make West Berlin a "free city."

As 1958 drew to an end there seemed to be no doubt that Khrushchev had once more returned to the tactic of high level negotiations with the Western powers. The chances of a foreign ministers' meeting or an eventual summit conference appeared to be increasing though they were not so great as they had been just a year earlier. Nevertheless there was pressure from America's allies in Europe on the theory that talk at least stalls off the crisis and minimizes the danger of military conflict.

Two other lines of development also pointed toward the possibility of high level political meetings. Russia and the Western powers surprisingly succeeded in agreeing last summer on the scientific requirements for an inspection system which could effectively police a prohibition of nuclear test explosions. This agreement among scientists was followed Oct. 31 by the opening of negotiations at Geneva for a political accord.

The Soviets also entered into negotiations—in response to an early initiative by President Eisenhower—to see whether they could work out methods by which the dangers of a surprise attack by any of the great powers could be prevented. As in the case of a nuclear test ban, the central issue was an inspection system. This negotiation also was paralyzed by wrangling.

the evident purpose of spreading fear. Then from the Far East the center of international tensions suddenly shifted on Nov. 10 to Berlin which, 10 years earlier, had been the scene of the first great test of strength between Russia and the Western Allies. Khrushchev announced that the time had come to end the occupation of Berlin and that he intended to turn over occupation functions to the East German Communist government.

South's Pro-Segregationists May Experience Rough Year

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the South's pro-segregationists, 1959 may well be the toughest year since the U. S. Supreme Court outlawed school segregation on May 17, 1954.

A series of broad attacks against segregation in the South both in the courts and in the forthcoming Congress appears to be in the offing.

Further, even in the Deep South there appears to be some internal dissension over the school issue. With the opening of the 86th Congress, the South's ancient weapon against passage of meaningful civil rights legislation, the filibuster, will be under powerful attack.

Then there is the abiding suspicion in certain Democratic circles here that the Justice Department intends to become more active in prosecuting charges of civil rights violations in the South.

The object? To split the conservative, pro-segregation Southern wing of the party from the more liberal Northern wing prior to the 1960 presidential campaign.

At year's end 16,400 high school students in Virginia and Arkansas were without public school facilities. The schools had been closed rather than permit any degree of racial integration.

Unless there is some retreat by Southern political leaders determined to maintain all-white public schools, the prospect of adding thousands of additional students to the list of those without public schools is good.

Arlington County, Va., which has 23,000 students in its school system, is under federal court order to begin desegregation in January. The public schools of Atlanta, Ga., are confronted with a federal court suit to bring about integration.

Georgia led the way in the South in declaring opposition to any form of public school integration.

Georgia has asserted laws designed to block any integration including a school closing law. In the face of the possible closing of its excellent public school system, Atlanta's Mayor William B. Hartsfield has demanded that the people of Atlanta be permitted to determine whether they want public schools or no schools at all.

Further, members of the county's state legislative delegation have been stumping the area—civic meetings, garden clubs and parent-teacher gatherings—asking that people demand local action. Publicly-wise 1958 was a bad year for the South. The new year may be no better.

Road-Building Accomplishments Reviewed

Highway Department Is Proud of 1958 Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Travelers moving over Ohio's highways from 1958 into 1959 are finding the going smoother, faster and safer.

Results of the many millions poured into modern road building already are apparent from Lake Erie to the Ohio River. Before the end of another construction year things will be even brighter for the motorist who likes to get there safely—but fast.

The Ohio Department of Highway executives, extremely proud of the accomplishments thus far, have taken a year-end look at the state's road building program. They've ignored some political snipings from many quarters at the ways and means adopted to push the program to concentrate on what's been done.

THE DEPARTMENT'S public relations office, admittedly partisan, says this: "1958 was a second record-breaking year for the Ohio Department of Highways, accomplishing a program of 381 million dollars." It added:

"The balanced program, which allows for building of the new interstate freeways while continuing needed improvements on existing highways, included more than 700 miles of construction. This total includes 196 miles on the interstate system as well as 512 miles of improvements such as curve eliminations, road re-alignments and relocations. And 21,100 miles of highway were resurfaced."

Soon there'll be some changes in the highway department when the new director, Everett S. Preston, 47, appointee of Democratic Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle, takes over from Charles M. Noble, Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill's 300,000-a-year director.

But such political upheavals are nothing new in Ohio's highway department. There'll be some changes. Democrats can be expected to replace some Republican appointees all over the system, and scores of non-civil service employees holding key jobs can expect replacement.

But still, a hard core of highway employees will remain to do the same job they've been doing for years—building and repairing highways. A change in the political tone is not expected to slow down the progress of the state's road building.

LET'S TAKE A look at some of the major accomplishments in the past year of road construction—completed projects, by division:

Division 1—U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Findlay, Hancock and Wood counties, at a cost of $3,295,880; U.S. 68, traffic relief route around Findlay, cost, $2,367,410.

Division 2—U.S. 20, traffic relief route around Fremont, cost, 4 million dollars; U.S. 6 traffic relief route around Bryan, Henry and Williams counties, cost, $1,511,200.

Division 3—U.S. 42 and 244, relocation from Lodi at U.S. 42 eastward to U.S. 21, Medina and Summit counties, cost $14,260,660; U.S. 30, traffic relief route around Mansfield, Ashland and Richland counties, cost, three million dollars.

Division 4—Ohio 21, relocation built as two and four-lane highway between Massillon, Barberton and Akron, Stark, Summit and Wayne counties, cost $14,273,190.

Division 5—U.S. 22, traffic relief route around Rushville, Fairfield County, cost $1,645,100; U.S. 62, traffic relief route around Ulica, Licking and Knox counties, cost $920,272.

Division 6—U.S. 33, part No. 2 of Spring-Sandusky interchange in Columbus, cost $4,358,410; U.S. 40R, Mound - Whittier express route in Columbus, cost $3,550,700.

Division 7—U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Piqua, Miami County, cost $4,763,376; U.S. 25, traffic relief route around Wapakoneta, Auglaize County, cost, $5,441,503.

Division 8—Milcreek Expressway in Cincinnati, dual lane, non-stop thoroughfare through the city, including Martin Street grade separation in Hamilton County, cost $3,996,421.

Division 9—U.S. 35, construction of two-lane highway from 2.9 miles west of Jackson, 6.4 miles westward toward Chillicothe, in Jackson and Ross counties, cost, $3,038,026; U.S. 23, construction of overpass of C & O Railroad at Hopetown, cost, $824,650.

Division 10—Ohio 50 in Vinton County, road improvement, cost $999,400; U.S. 33 in Hocking County, road improvement, cost, $1,064,600.

Division 11—Ohio 7, Pennsylvania Railroad grade separation at Brilliant in Jefferson County, cost, $3,465,110; U.S. 40R, traffic relief route around St. Clairsville in Belmont County, cost, $3,858,240.

Division 12—Superstructure of the innerbelt Freeway in Cleveland, cost, $8,945,200; also the west approach to the innerbelt in Cleveland, cost, $3,136,360.

But these major projects are completed, and do not include the maze of projects half-finished or contracted for.

More than a fourth of the year's program, $95,024,137, was spent for 21 construction projects on the Cincinnati - Conneaut Freeway between Columbus and Conneaut. These projects added 82 miles to this key interstate route and left only short sections in the Cleveland area to be placed under contract.

Some other highlights: The Cincinnati-Dayton Expressway, Ohio's only six-lane divided highway, will be providing drivers with more than 35 miles of non-stop motoring by August 1960. Total cost of this project, for which contracts have been awarded for 33.1 miles, will top 40 million dollars.

MAJOR CONSTRUCTION also included sections of the East-West Freeway that will solve the most urgent needs for those using U.S. 40. Traffic relief routes around St. Clairsville, Clayton, Kiskersville and Hebron were placed under contract during the year at a cost of $7,654,464.

Development of Ohio's urban expressway systems accounted for much of the department's record-breaking program. The first section of Cincinnati's Circle Freeway between Ohio 4 and 42 will be completed in July 1960 at a cost of nearly 13.5 million dollars.

Canton's expressway system was initiated with the award of a 7.7 million project Dec. 9, with completion of nearly three miles on this multi-lane expressway set for August, 1960.

In Akron, contracts for the hub of the city's expressway system, the North - South, East - West Expressways interchange, was awarded at a total cost of 5.3 million.

CLEVELAND'S Lakeland Freeway extension is being built at a total cost of 3.9 millions. Another giant expressway project awarded this year was part of the Columbus North Freeway to cost 12.9 millions.

Construction of new U.S. 33 approaches to both Lancaster and Athens was begun in the middle of 1958. Both projects, costing a total of 7.2 millions, will eliminate daily traffic jams on the existing highway.

Relocation of U.S. 52 in Lawrence County as a four-lane divided highway near Ironton was another highlight of the year's program. Total cost of construction now underway at Hanging Rock and South Point is 8.5 millions.

There were other improvements. The year-end report of the department concludes:

"The benefits of Ohio's highway program for 1958 were numerous. Already, completed portions of the interstate system are saving time and lives. The cities themselves, not to mention the state as a whole, have benefited greatly from traffic relief routes, improved intra-city streets and freeways which have reduced traffic congestion."

Mother Assists Officers In Closing Son's Case.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Deputies arrested a 6-1, 180-pound teenager, for creating a disturbance at a drive-in restaurant and summoned his mother.

The mother came to the station, heard the report and borrowed a belt from a deputy. She then made her son lower his pants — as deputies watched — and then lowered the boom with the belt. Deputies marked the case closed.

Life Sentence Is Resumed by Homer J. Dean

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Homer Jack Dean made two trips to Ohio Penitentiary from county jail Wednesday afternoon to resume his life sentence for murder. The second time he was accepted.

Flat refusal to take him back on his first delivery by sheriff's deputies rocked Common Pleas Court, the sheriff's office and the prosecutor's office.

A misunderstanding of the legal proceedings that started in October, 1956—when Dean was removed from the penitentiary—was cited for the turmoil in another chapter of the Dean case.

Presiding Judge Robert E. Leach signed the necessary papers complying with an Appellate Court decision, in effect upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court, returning Dean to the penitentiary for the murder of Elmo C. Rice, Columbus real estate man, in 1947.

Ross Fogle, chief clerk at the prison, refused to admit Dean. Papers, he said, were not in order. His decision stemmed from an October, 1956 habeas corpus order of the Appellate Court which placed Dean in county jail for 26 months.

This order, Fogle told deputies and later prosecutor Earl W. Allison, vacated Dean's commitment to the penitentiary.

Campus Walk To Assist In Engineering Studies

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—University of Virginia students will walk the world's first continuously reinforced sidewalk.

The 303-foot long slab of reinforced concrete was laid as a joint operation by the University and the Virginia Council of Highway Investigation and Research. Concealed in the pavement are hundreds of feet of tiny wires.

Every quiver or movement of the big slab will be recorded and results analyzed. It is a pilot study for an inter-state highway.

Economists Predict Full Business Recovery by End of 1959

Steady Gain In Consumer Buying Seen

Businessmen Expect Sales Gain for Year, Poll by NAM Reveals

By L. A. BROPHY
AP General Business Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — You can count on being better off in 1959 than in 1958. Economists are not agreed, however, on how much better off.

The recession is over. Recovery started in the spring of 1958 and continued at a steady pace until fall. Then, the economic indexes began to slow up over the rate that had been predicted.

Reading these figures as a fever chart, it might be concluded the patient had a slight relapse. However, the economists say he is in good shape and that full recovery will come by the end of the new year.

Unemployment To Linger

Your situation in the new year shies up something like this:

To the nearly four million out of jobs, the immediate prospects for a resumption of paychecks is not bright. There probably will not be a measurable cut in unemployment until the middle of the year.

There are several reasons for this. Automation in industry is going ahead at such a fast clip that fewer workers are able to turn out more and more products all the time.

While the economy is steady and going forward, the kind of production that will enable extensive rehiring of workers, is not expected to come until about mid-year.

If you are selling things, the prospects are brighter. Consumer buying was maintained during the recession and constituted one of the really comforting aspects of the downturn. The indications are that people will be in more of a buying mood in 1959 than in 1958.

Personal income is expected to increase and, in point of fact, it rose for seven straight months, beginning in February last year, but declined slightly in October.

Labor disputes in some major industries were held responsible for the dip.

Expect Higher Sales

The National Assn. of Manufacturers said three out of every four businessmen in a national poll expect their company sales to be higher in 1959.

People fear further inflation, which may have a softening effect on buying. But, government economists are hopeful that the price lines will hold relatively steady for the first half of the year. After that, if the momentum of recovery continues as expected, price increases are expected.

The University of Michigan, which does a good job of anticipating consumer temper, reports its latest poll showed more families now say their financial situation has improved; they have hopes for higher income and a better year in 1959 all around.

The gross national product, the total of all goods and services, is expected to reach 460 to 470 billion dollars in 1959. It was around 450 billion at the end of 1958. That pretty well tells the story of what's ahead for the new year — good times but not boom times.

Business Outlook

1959 should see a continued increase in contracts awarded under the long range interstate highway program. It is our belief that the construction equipment industry will have an enlarged market as a consequence.

"Employment should remain steady throughout the year and sales opportunities should be somewhat greater than during 1958. New models to be introduced in 1959 should further enhance these opportunities for our company."

Charles D. Harmon, president of the Chamber of Commerce, foresees a stable 1959. He said:

"Most signs point to a fairly stable year for Marion . . . and there are some indications of rising economic trends. Employment should be steady or even up from this year providing the Power Shop situation is resolved within a reasonably short time."

"There still is a demand for homes and the consumer market remains strong for automobiles and appliances. The retailers will, no doubt, have to put forth a greater effort to sell next year, but proper promotion should produce beneficial results."

"We in the Chamber of Commerce will stand ready to aid and cooperate wherever possible to help keep Marion moving ahead in the coming year."

Lloyd E. Maltison, immediate past chairman of the retail board of managers of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, said:

"The year 1958 did not come up to the expectations of many Marion merchants. We still have many of our problems with us such as empty store rooms and lack of off-street parking."

"As we face 1959, I see what could be a very prosperous year. Industry, with very few exceptions, is reaching its peak. The Marion area is becoming a more complete place to shop."

"If each merchant and property owner will accept his responsibility in meeting the challenge to correct our problems, we can have a very successful 1959."

C. L. Baxler, Marion division manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., is somewhat conservative in his predictions for the coming year. He said:

"Business in the Marion area will surpass 1958 but not reach the 1956-57 levels until late in the year. This will, of course, reflect in gas sales in that not all industries in this area will approach the consumption of the two peak years."

Because home building activity parallels industrial activity, he predicts that there will be about 250 homes erected in the Marion area during 1959 compared with 400 in 1958-57.

Ohio Fuel is optimistic about the local economy as proven by its expenditure of nearly $500,000 in the last four years to expand its facilities here, he said. It also plans to do more work to expand and better its service in the new year than it did in 1958, he said.

H. J. Grigsby, Marion Division manager of the Ohio Edison Co., reported: "Ohio Edison's construction program since 1950 has been the largest in its history and will continue in 1959 in order to meet the increasing demand for electricity."

"In the Marion area, major improvements are being made in the transmission and distribution facilities and it is planned to provide further expansion of the system in order to keep pace with the growth of business. The city street lighting improvement program . . . will be completed in 1959."

A new generating plant under construction at Stratton . . . is to be completed in 1962 at a total cost of approximately 125 million dollars. The first generating unit will be installed in it during 1959."

L. Otis Porter, manager of the Marion Water Co., said: "The 1959 plans of the Marion Water Co. anticipate continued growth and the company expects normal requests for new mains, services and meters."

Reviewing the electrification and modernization of the company facilities began last year, he said the total cost has exceeded $1,000,000 "with additional costs to be incurred in 1959."

"Electrification of the company's main station was completed last year with diesel standby facilities," he said.

Just last month, a new 6,000,000 gallon daily filter plant with a 500,000 gallon covered clear water reservoir was placed in operation, he noted. This project also included a new laboratory and chemical building and complete modernization of treatment facilities, he said.

A small dam on the Little Scioto River, designed to supplement the company's water supply, was started late in 1958 and is to be placed in operation this month or next, he said.

The resulting combination well and surface water supply will provide a safe and adequate water supply for continued growth of the community for many years to come, he said.

Jasper Burt, general manager of Whirlpool Corporation's Marion division plant, said:

"For Whirlpool, 1958 was a year of economic turbulence. Like most durable goods manufacturers we were hit hard by the recession. However, the second half of the year has been good. Demand for our dryers during this season exceeded our highest hopes of last Spring."

"We enter 1959 in a much stronger position than a year ago."

"While we will be terminating our temporary, seasonal employees, I believe with the improved business conditions, and careful scheduling we will be able to avoid a layoff this Spring when the dryer business, which is highly seasonal, hits its low ebb in the year."

"While no major capital expansion is planned for the year, we will continue to make improvements within the plant where necessary and desirable. The appliance industry is anticipating that 1,300,000 dryers will be produced during the year. We expect to at least hold, if not increase, our share of that business."

J. W. Fretz, manager of The Quaker Oats Co., Ken-L-Products plant here, said: "The pet food business, and with it the output of our . . . plant in Marion, should continue to grow in 1959. The construction of our new Ken-L-Meal processing plant certainly testifies to Quaker's confidence in an expanding market."

"Marion's location and its business climate make it a wonderful city in which to do business. Most important of all, our success has come through the loyal dependable efforts of our employees."

"Under such favorable conditions, we look forward to a very successful year."

G. E. Herr, president and general manager of the Marion Metal Products Co., said: "There should be an improvement in orders during the first six months of the new year based on additional road building contracts and other contracts which use hydraulic hoist and dump bodies which we build."

"The year 1958 was off substantially compared with 1957 business and it is doubtful if 1959 will return to '57 levels; however, '59 should show some improvement."

"Domestic competition is very keen and foreign competition has almost eliminated export shipments as the prices of foreign manufactured goods are extremely low.

"We look forward to '59 as a very hopeful year for improving business conditions."

Col. John Phelan, commanding officer of the Marion Engineer Depot, said: "Operations in 1959 for Marion Engineer Depot are, in most instances, expected to be on a par with those of 1958. The estimated operating budget, as it did in 1958, exceeds $7,000,000."

"Manpower requirements, while slightly below 1958, are expected to stabilize between 950 and 1,000 persons."

"Total stocks on hand will remain fairly constant and will assure continuation of MED being the foremost depot in the U.S. in terms of tons of engineer supplies on hand."

"The property disposal office is expected to dispose of supplies and equipment having an acquisition value in excess of $15,000,000."

"Construction projects will be considerably less than in 1958 and will consist primarily of additional warehouse space being converted to controlled humidity storage and an addition of one building for repair of cryogenic equipment."

Harry W. Von Willer, president of the Erie Railroad Co., said: "The year closed on a more optimistic note than when it started. There are definite signs that our economy is headed for a comeback in 1959."

"It now appears that business in general and particularly the heavy goods industries . . . on which Erie relies for much of its tonnage, will show gradual improvement in the months ahead."

"We can look forward to a more encouraging and rewarding year," he said.

He added that Erie had a deficit operation in 1958 but expects to return to a profitable operation in 1959. As more money becomes available, capital improvements postponed during 1958 may be accomplished in 1959, he said.

Khrushchev, His guests included Soviet officials and foreign diplomats.

Muscovites generally scrambled for food and drink for midnight celebrations. It appeared that a temperance campaign initiated by Khrushchev had put no appreciable damper on the festivities.

For Soviet youngsters, new year's was the exciting day of the year — looking forward to gifts from "Grandfather Frost," the Soviet Santa Claus.

In Western Europe, 1958 was welcomed in much the same way as in the United States.

In Bonn, West German President Theodor Heuss said Soviet threats concerning Berlin imperiled the world. The 74-year-old scholar urged the West to use "imagination and flexible tenacity" in its talks with the Soviets.

Heuss told a radio audience that postwar problems stemmed in part from hasty judgments at Tehran and Yalta, but that they were caused primarily by Adolf Hitler.

In Athens, King Paul of Greece called upon world leaders to cooperate in a spirit of brotherhood for peace.

AMERICANS HONORED
In St. Paul's Cathedral, the largest church in London, there is on the chapel floor an inscription: "To the American Dead of the Second World War from the People of Britain." Accompanying is a role of honor carrying the names of 28,000 Britain-based Americans killed in action.

Inflation Top Headache for Government

Continued Shrinkage Of Dollar May Alter Its Anticontrol Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Washington economists believe the turn-of-the-year leveling of prices is just a pause. By mid-1959, they predict, inflation will resume its march.

Halting that advance has become the foremost domestic goal of the Eisenhower administration. It has proved itself willing to risk delaying the business recovery to prevent further shrinkage of the dollar.

Some top officials, including Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, are even prepared to retreat from the ironclad anticontrol policy of the Republican administration if this proves to be necessary.

Anderson has let it be known he would consider asking Congress for a standby consumer credit control law if it appeared that free wheeling installment credit was spinning prices up. Right now it is not.

In fact, the fall of 1958 brought the first significant interruption in three years to the steady rise of the living costs. In that time the consumer's dollar lost 8 cents worth of buying power.

Defying the business recession for a full year, the consumer price index pushed upward until it reached an all-time peak in July at 123.9 per cent of the 1947-49 average. In August it dipped to 123.7; there it leveled off.

Government economists now privately predict it will hold approximately the present level for perhaps six months more, because the three kinds of cost that go into the average family's budget are moving in three directions:

Goods — appliances, clothing, cars, furniture — are holding level. Services — transportation, repairs, medical care, laundry and the like — never have stopped rising. Only food is cheaper; it has been declining as it should after a bumper harvest.

May Prevail Through Year
This balance of trends may prevail well into 1959.

The view that it will take heroic measures to prevent creeping, walking or galloping inflation was reinforced by recent experience. Wages and prices both rose during the recession.

Consumer prices went up more than 2 per cent. Hourly earnings of workers in durable goods factories — the hardest hit plants — rose 3.2 per cent.

In the opinion of Dr. Arthur F. Burns, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, this provided "new evidence that while there may well be pauses in the process of inflation, as in the last few months, the underlying trend of the price level is still upward."

For those who like participation sports, the three local bowling alleys, the Palace, Marion Recreation and Plaza Lanes, will be open in the afternoon for open bowling. This will be a one-day holiday for most persons in this area. Most industrial plants, all retail stores and most other businesses and offices will reopen Friday.

Funds Okayed For Four New Nuclear Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy is releasing impounded funds to begin construction of an advanced type of missile-firing submarine.

It announced Wednesday it has given orders for building the first of four nuclear subs that apparently will be heavier than any American undersea craft now afloat or under construction.

The new-type submarines, like others' being built, will be equipped with 1,500-mile range Polaris missiles.

These solid fuel missiles now are in the test stage. When they and their submarine platforms are combined, the United States will have a force of mobile missile launchers able to strike at enemy targets from ocean depths.

The money for the new subs is coming out of 600 million dollars appropriated by the last Congress for such a purpose. This money was over and above what the Eisenhower administration requested, and it was impounded by the Defense Department.

Each of the new vessels is estimated to cost 105 million dollars. The Navy said the remainder of the impounded money will be released over the next 18 months for the other three subs in the new class.

Welfare Fund Reports To Be Asked by U.S.

New Law To Require Regular Accounting To Safeguard Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today the government will begin keeping tabs on some 40 billion dollars worth of worker welfare and pension funds.

A new law just going into effect requires regular financial reports and descriptions of such plans to be filed with the Labor Department, with the object of safeguarding them from possible fraud.

85 Million Persons Covered
Congress, in passing the disclosure law last summer, noted there are about 85 million workers and members of their families who are beneficiaries of such plans—about half the population. The funds are growing fast, at an estimated four billion dollars a year.

President Eisenhower already is planning to ask Congress to put more teeth in the law and to let the government go in and investigate the plans and their finances for any suspected corruption.

Details Must Be Filed
The bill does require that operations of such funds shall be conducted in the goldfish bowl atmosphere of public scrutiny. Besides the copies of the reports that are to be filed with the government and made available for public inspection, such reports are required to be furnished to beneficiaries by mail on request.

Detailed description of welfare-pension plans are required to be filed with the Labor Department by an April 1 deadline. This is to include data on the administrators or trustees, the benefits provided, financing methods, and claims and appeal procedures.

Morris Sacharoff, head of the unit in the Labor Department that will receive and process reports, says he hadn't any idea of how many to expect, but the guessing runs from 250,000 to 1 1/2 million.

Khrushchev's Gift for Eaton Creates Flurry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A holiday present for Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland industrialist, arrived in port Wednesday and caused a flurry of excitement. It was from Russia's ruler, Nikita Khrushchev. The gift was three big, handsome white horses and a gleaming carriage.

Russian representatives sent from Washington to meet the ship, Mormec Rio, told Fred Peters, collector of customs, that the horses and carriage were in recognition of Eaton's recent trip to the Soviet Union. While there he met Khrushchev.

Customs men estimated the horses were worth about $8,000. The carriage was valued at perhaps $100.

Horses and carriage were not unloaded here. They will be taken off the ship in New York, then taken overland to Eaton in Cleveland.

Customs and immigration officials were curious far beyond their job of okaying the gift for entry into the country. Hovering around them were clusters of others equally interested.

Eaton, a man of liberal beliefs, was asked to the Kremlin because he is highly regarded in Russia despite his capitalist background. He owns railroads, coal mines, steel mills and other industrial properties.

Upon his return home, Eaton suggested to President Eisenhower that he visit the Soviet Union on a good-will mission.

Atlas Is Silent; Fear Battery Has Run Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlas satellite may have lost its voice through overwork.

This was the word from the Army Wednesday after failing for 24 hours to make new two-way contact with the space vehicle.

The Army said it was too soon to be sure that the Atlas radio batteries had run out. It said further efforts will be made to re-establish contact but that it "now appears that communications tests with the satellite have ended."

When the Atlas was fired into orbit Dec. 18, it carried a voice recording of President Eisenhower in a peace on earth Christmas message.

Wednesday the Army sent up a Happy New Year message which it hoped the Atlas would relay to the earth. But it didn't work.

Army Signal Corps specialists theorized that the batteries in the Atlas were weakening because the satellite is drawing nearer the earth on each successive pass.

The Army said another probable cause of early battery burnout was the heavy use they have been put to in a variety of communications experiments.

been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expected their flight toward easternmost Oriente Province would gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive would be intensified once the rebels were pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there. Insurgents still have the bulk of their forces in Oriente. They have entered or occupied a half dozen cities there and isolated the city of Santiago de Cuba. Some positions were given up by the government to rush reinforcements to Santa Clara.

Directs Cleanup Operation
Batista sent Maj. Gen. Jose Pedraza, known as an iron-fisted fighting man, to direct the cleanup of rebels in Las Villas.

The President, whose overthrow has been the goal of Castro's 25-month-old rebellion, kept close watch on developments.

A late dispatch said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there had harbored 200 rebels in a church and had come out crying for peace although he carried a machine gun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad, on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American Embassy to go to the United States.

Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the United States.

Castro Follower Gets Embassy in Argentina
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Cuba's resigned ambassador turned the Cuban Embassy over to a representative of Fidel Castro's rebels Wednesday.

Alberlo Espinosa Brevo, who resigned last week, said he felt the Castro movement represented the will of the Cuban people.

Jorge Beruff, a Cuban who claims he represents Castro, said he would inform Argentina's Foreign Ministry and adopt any measures the government felt were convenient.

Showdown at Hand

Labor Entering Major Struggle With Business

By VICTOR RIESEL

On runways across the land, grounded planes are evidence that a vast multi-million dollar civilian war has started. Before it is over, sometime in 1960, hundreds of millions of dollars in profits and many a union treasury will be wiped out.

The airline strikes which have made the industrial atmosphere so turbulent are just skirmishes in the final showdown between American business and American labor—a showdown which has been 14 years coming. After this we will be out of the post-war years.

There are at least 10 major industries in which the biggest companies, the leadership corporations, have been consulting for some two years now. They decided that this was the "wage round" in which they'd fight it out.

The commercial airline field is but one of these. It was not the first, though the airlines were the most dramatic of companies.

What dramatized their struggle with the jet jittery unions was not the romantic wild blue yonder business of daily flying but the fact that the companies banded together and agreed to make up the losses any one of the six major lines suffered in a strike. By this time they've paid a total of more than $24 million dollars to such outfits as Capital and Transworld Airlines when they were strike-bound.

THE LINES now aloft will be paying hundreds of thousands, maybe millions of dollars more, to the earthbound Eastern Airlines, for example. This is unprecedented. Just think of it: the airlines which gained from Capital's 37-day stoppage paid that company over $1,600,000. Thus it could take the strike and lose very little.

Now, as the loud speaker of the old Sampson Navy boot training station would say, hear this: The Civil Aeronautics Board soon will hold a hearing on whether these payments are legal or a technical conspiracy in violation of the federal transport and anti-trust laws. That's just what industry's strategists want. For, if it is legal, then business has devised a new type of strike insurance. If it is illegal, however, for business to get together, from out of the executive suites of America will come a roar—why is it not illegal then for labor to band together in a joint council and strike a corporation or an industry?

INDUSTRIALISTS, who have spent many grim nights at bargaining tables, are saying to themselves and government people that labor has joint councils of as many as 50 to 60 unions inside just one corporation.

Special AFL-CIO committees are set up to raise multi-million dollar strike funds for sister unions. Why can't the businessmen do likewise?

That is what they're saying, for example, in the steel field. This industry is expecting to be hit with whopping demands to cover steelworkers from the cradle to the grave and considerable in between.

These demands will be hurled by the United Steelworkers Wage Policy Committee late in April. There have been conferences for the past months between the policy makers of the 11 biggest steel corporations. They have decided to stand pat—just as the big three of the auto industry did last summer.

THERE HAVE been similar private parleys in the hard coal fields and in the oil, rubber, glass, electronics and railroad industries.

Contracts in these areas expire anywhere from the coal men's pacts in January to the railroaders' in November. You can even expect a railroad strike some time in 1960.

The industrialists are saying they've had it. The unions are saying they haven't had enough. Both sides will be pouring out millions to win this one.

For the unions, this showdown could be as costly as dropping a china piggy bank over a dark cellar grating. Strike relief can empty a union treasury.

Walter Reuther's General Motors walkouts and a few other smaller ones cost 15 million dollars in one month. There are 80,000 auto strikers out this week. The union is sending them a $10 Christmas bonus. That's $800,000 in just one day.

A long national steel strike could cost the union 25 million dollars in strike relief. Of course, company profits would vanish.

That's the spectre stalking 1959. (Halt Syndicate)

Will Quiz Pentagon Officials

Senate Groups To Seek Data on Soviet Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of two Senate committees said Wednesday Pentagon officials will be asked about reports that the Soviet Union will have 300 intercontinental ballistic missiles within 18 months.

A report to that effect, without any verification, was made public at a weekend meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. It said half the 300 ICBMs would work, with a range and accuracy that could destroy the U.S. Strategic Air Command's retaliatory power.

There was no comment from military officials.

Roger Hillsman, deputy research director of the Library of Congress' Legislative Reference Service, said he got the report second-hand from a meeting of a minority group of the Council of Foreign Relations in New York early this month.

But members of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees said the estimate calls for an early statement by the Defense Department to the two groups.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (Mont), assistant Senate Democratic leader, said closed door sessions of the two committees to receive the appraisal "unquestionably will be among the first orders of business" after Congress meets Jan. 7.

Senators John Sparkman (D-Ala.), Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) and John S. Cooper (R-Ky.) all said Congress will need some early comment from the Defense Department on what the known facts are.

Common Market Step to Unity
West Europe Pledges Economic Cooperation

PARIS (AP) — Six continental nations turn over a new leaf Thursday, bringing closer to reality the dream of a United Europe.

As the new year dawns, centuries - old trade barriers will begin to fall away. The European Economic Community, or Common Market, will gradually come into being.

With the six Western European nations "disarming" their trade with one another, farmers of the Common Market treaty look ahead to higher living standards for their 168 million people. But equally important, they feel that Western Europe will no longer be a cauldron of war.

THE COMMON MARKET Pact was signed nearly two years ago in Rome by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Its first provisions go into effect New Year's Day.

Basically, this is what will happen:

Each of the six nations will cut its tariffs against the other 10 per cent.

Each of the six will open its frontiers to an over-all 20 per cent more goods from the other five. This is technically known as increasing import quotas.

This is just a small start on the way toward completely free trade—as free as exists among the 49 United States. The final goal is to be achieved over a transition period of 12 to 15 years.

THESE DRASTIC liberalization measures will be applied only within "Little Europe." There still will be a barrier between the six-nation area and the outside world.

The common market treaty provisions will also extend to the vast overseas areas belonging to the six. They include the huge African territories of France and Belgium, wealthy in minerals and other raw materials.

The key to full functioning of the Common Market is France. Only a few days ago, Gen. Charles de Gaulle pushed through Parliament decrees to implement the first measures Jan. 1.

Last-minute monetary adjustments were ordered during the Christmas holidays. These included a new devaluation of the franc, making it worth less in terms of foreign currencies. This was an artificial means of bringing down French prices so they could compete in the Common Market.

The Common Market also presents a new challenge for America. "Little Europe" will make more of her own cars, refrigerators, washing machines and other manufactured goods. To get into this market, U.S. industry has already begun to establish factories within the market area. There is expected to be a broader field for U.S. investment, raw materials and capital goods.

AS THE SIX nations join in their customs union, a storm is gathering outside. The other nations of Western Europe fear they will be frozen out. Britain is leading the push for wider, more loosely regulated free trade area, including the six Common Market nations and their 11 neighbors. But France is bitterly fighting the free trade area, claiming she cannot stand broader trade liberalization.

The Six and the Eleven will confront each other Jan. 15 in Paris in a new effort to make peace. Should they fail to reach accord soon, a trade war appears inevitable.

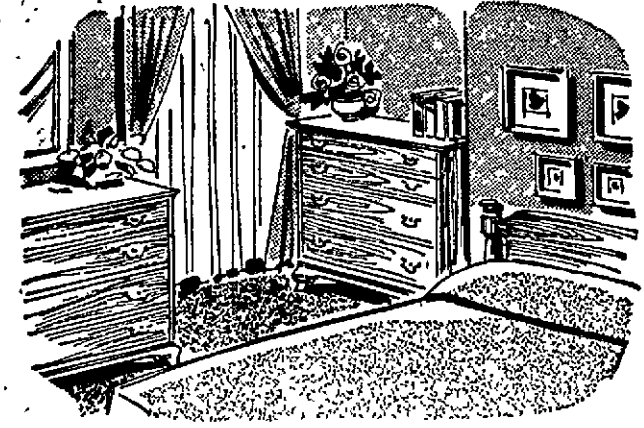

No tanks used by the American Army in World War I were of American make. They all were made in Britain or France.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

YOUR OWN KIND OF COMFORT

The one quality above all others that your bedroom should have is restfulness. This is achieved by the correlation of several factors—simplicity of line, lack of clutter, adequate storage facilities to insure order, the colors that are the most restful to you, properly regulated light, and, of course, sleeping equipment that gives you your own kind of comfort.

Note how the predominance of horizontal lines in the knotty pine furniture sketched above contribute to the room's overall feeling of restfulness.

A soft shade of periwinkle blue was used on walls and for rayon damask draperies to accentuate the rich mellow tones of the furniture. Sheer glass curtains filter the light, cut glare and give privacy. Ample storage has been provided by the highboy and the chest.

Accessories and wall decor were carefully selected to give a look of coziness without clutter. White candlewick spreads on twin beds give emphasis to white glass curtains — are perfect complements for the Early American furniture. Honey-beige wall-to-wall carpet gives the room a warm, snug feeling and makes it appear to be larger than it is.

Our new selection of Cherry and Maple furniture answers your wishes for authentic beauty for living room, dining room and bedroom at prices you can easily afford. Every piece hand-picked for beauty, durability and good value. So make it a point to see this collection soon, won't you?

Could Slow Down Super AircraftSatellite Trail May Be Utilized as Space BrakeBy RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A young Seattle physicist has reported he is studying possible ways of using meteor trails and the wakes of satellites as brakes to slow down superfast aircraft for earth landings.

The idea is to determine whether the trails and wakes contain magnetic fields to pigment the electric particles which they are known to contain.

If magnetic fields are present, they may force the electrical particles to move within a long, cylindrical mass which could act as a kind of headwind for slowing test aircraft, said Ira L. Karp of the Boeing Airplane Co.

Karp delivered a paper on the subject before the American Physical Society.

Citing work done by other scientists, Karp said tests already have shown that satellites produce trails of electrified particles by colliding with atoms in the upper atmosphere.

Meteors have long been known to produce these particles. Scientists regularly aim radar waves at meteor trails and record their reflection back to earth.

But investigators so far have not determined whether the trails themselves contain magnetic fields, Karp said. If they have their own magnetic fields it is possible that these fields keep the particles momentarily in line so they can act uniformly against objects of opposite electrical charge.

Thus an aircraft might put a positive electrical charge on its nose and encounter a repelling force when it enters the field of the negatively charged particles in the trail.

Meteor trails thin out too quickly to act with any considerable force. However, an aircraft traveling at 20 times the speed of sound, roughly 12,000 miles an hour, might be able to slip in behind a satellite and slow itself down to a safe landing speed.

Boat Enthusiasts Good Prospects, Banker Says

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A loan on a boat generally is a good one for banks to float, a banking conference here was told.

"A boating enthusiast will almost part with his wife before losing his boating equipment," said Guy W. Hughes, Chicago, executive director of the Outboard Boating Club of America.

Iowa, LSU, Oklahoma, TCU Favored in Bowl Play

Big Ten's Champs Given Wide Edge

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Iowa, Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Texas Christian are favored to start 1959 off on the right foot — with victories in the four big football bowls today.

This is the big encore college football has been saving after its regular 1958 show. The cast of characters and the plots they've rehearsed will make for some exciting watching.

And the joy of the matter is that everyone is invited, via television, or among the 335,000 who will sit in on either the Rose, Sugar, Orange or Cotton bowls.

Iowa Favored by 18
The Iowa Hawkeyes are the biggest favorites, given an 18-point nod over Pacific Coast Conference champ California in the Rose Bowl. Some 100,000 spectators are expected to jam the bowl at Pasadena, Calif. The game will be televised over NBC-TV beginning at 5 p.m. EST.

National champion Louisiana State is a big favorite over Clemson in the Sugar Bowl and Oklahoma is equally favored to beat Syracuse in the Orange Bowl. TCU gets the nod over the Air Force Academy in the Cotton Bowl.

The weatherman has foreseen no difficulty for Iowa's All-American quarterback Randy Duncan and his running mates Willie Fleming and Ray Jauch. In addition, Iowa will have an 18-pound advantage in the line to propel an offense that ran over seven of nine opponents, tying the Air Force and losing to Ohio State.

The Big Ten champs also are out to duplicate their 35-19 win over Oregon State in 1957, their only other appearance in the big bowl.

California, playing as the last representative of the PCC, offers quarterback Joe Kapp, a smooth passer, slick running split-T quarterback who proved to be a one-man gang for the Bears in a 7-3 season.

LSU Given 15 Points
Louisiana State is considered a shoo-in, or at least by 15 points, to knock over Atlantic Coast Conference king Clemson. The only thing LSU must fear is a bruising Clemson line that could derail its White team if the going is soggy.

The weatherman wouldn't wax optimistic for the 82,000 fans who will sit in New Orleans Sugar Bowl stadium. It has been a damp week and LSU, unbeaten in 10 regular games, is known to be at its best on a fast turf.

Home fans who watch over NBC-TV, beginning at 2 p.m. EST, also will see that famous triple-threat team of Coach Paul Dietzel — the Go, White and Chinese Bandits — try to stop Clemson's quarterback Harvey White. All American Billy Cannon, the battering LSU halfback, also will be on display.

Oklahoma's Sooners are 12½-point favorites to whip Syracuse and retain the title they won last year against Duke, 48-21. The game is on CBS-TV, 1 p.m. EST.

Replaces Lost Quarterback
Fullback Prentice Gault is Oklahoma's Coach Bud Wilkinson's mainstay. He is expected to offset the loss of quarterback Dave Baker, dropped from school because of scholastic deficiency early last month. Gault leads a speedy, clever Wilkinson-type team that will have to cope with Syracuse's brute strength.

Quarterback Chuck Zimmermann and tackle Ron Luciano are the mainstays of the Orange, which won eight of nine.

The big question mark team—the Air Force—will display its wares for the first time before a nationwide TV audience and 76,000 in Dallas' Cotton Bowl. Everyone who has been asking "What does this team have that made it win nine and tie one of 10 games?" gets the answer over CBS-TV, beginning at 3:30 p.m. EST. TCU is an 8-point favorite.

Iowa Mentor Stricken With Attack of Flu

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A flu bug laid head Coach Forest Evashevski of Iowa low Wednesday. But it will take more than that to keep him away from the Hawkeyes' game with California in the Rose Bowl today.

Evashevski was stricken by the illness, widespread in Southern California, at Tuesday night's Big Ten party for the visitors. He had a restless night and Wednesday morning was ordered to remain in bed by the team physician, Dr. W. D. Paul.

"Coach Evashevski's temperature was 101 degrees this morning but now it's down to 100. What he needs more than anything is rest," Dr. Paul said. He added he believes the coach will be all right for the game.

Assistant Bob Flora and Jerry Burns supervised the afternoon practice. The weather continued warm and sunny.

The great Sun Beau, bred and raced by Willie Sharpe Kilmer, won 33 of 74 starts and $376,744.

Middletons Study Bids of 14 Colleges

5 Big Ten Schools Seeking Services Of Prexy Ace

By ALLAN BOVEY

The year 1958 was a banner one in the annals of Harding High School football. The Proxies of Coach Gordon Larson rolled undefeated and untied through a nine-game schedule, the first time such a feat had been accomplished in the history of President grid activities.

As a result, Harding rated as the No. 1 team in the state in United Press International final standings and second in The Associated Press poll and Mentor Larson was the overwhelming pick for Buckeye State Coach of the Year laurels in both polls.

Harding's prowess, of course, was possible through the tremendous effort put forth by its footballers collectively. But the contribution of one player stood out, at season's end, like the proverbial "sore thumb."

THAT PLAYER WAS Bob Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Middleton of 958 E. Church St.

It is the dream of every coach to have in his charge the player with "everything." Middleton, a 5-3, 215 pound senior, came as close to deserving that superlative as anyone who ever wore a Prexy grid uniform.

Playing right end on offense and on the left side defensively, Middleton's consistent play earned him more honors than ever before bestowed on a Harding player. The big Prexy co-captain (an honor shared with Earl Evans) was honored at season's end as the Ohio Jaycees' All-Ohio football player of the year. The Associated Press and UPI All-Ohio linemen of the year and an All-Buckeye Conference performer at end.

Only two other President grid-ers have achieved All-Ohio honors. Evans was named an All-Ohio back this year, and Jerry Harbin, a member of this year's Ohio State University freshman football team, was an All-Ohio guard in 1957.

This was the third year of var-

BIG DECISION PENDING. Sooner or later, Bob Middleton (second from left), Harding High School's star footballer on this year's undefeated and untied eleven, will have to decide between 14 colleges and universities. Named the recipient of virtually every honor which can be bestowed upon a lineman at season's end, Bob, a senior, says he will "stay in Ohio." Looking over data sent by schools offering grid scholarships are (left to right): his mother, Mrs. R. W. Middleton, Bob, brother Ted, a member of this year's Muskingum College varsity, and Mr. Middleton. No less than five Big Ten schools, including Ohio State, have contacted the Prexy star.

sity for Bob, all three of them at end. An "above average" student, according to Harding Principal Earl Gatchell, Middleton is acclaimed by Coach Larson as "one of the finest all-around athletes I have coached in 10 years in the business."

BOB CAME by his athletic prowess largely on his own. His father played a bit of football for Harding back in the early 1920's, holding down a tackle spot for two years. But it remained for his sons to be the real stars in the family sportswise.

Bob's brother, Jed, a 1957 Prexy graduate and a varsity halfback on this year's fine Muskingum College eleven that posted an 8-1 record, earned recognition as an all-conference halfback in 1956. He was an honorable mention pick for an All-Ohio defensive halfback spot the same year.

Actually, it is not surprising that the two Middleton brothers, who assert that their football will end with college, should excel in sports. Mrs. Middleton says that sports was "a perpetual subject at meal times—ever since the boys were big enough to think about such things." Adds she: "They talked baseball so consistently that our daughter, now Mrs. Jack Kellogg of 262 Superior St., often seriously considered leaving the table."

Bob, whose exploits in a Black and Red uniform include three years of varsity basketball, began his climb to grid prominence with two years of play at Eber Baker Junior High under the tutelage of Don Zeisler, now line coach at Harding.

MIDDLETON PLAYED in junior high school as a fullback. His switch to an end was prompted by the fact there was a pair of pretty fair fullbacks already on the roster—one of whom was brother Jed. He and Gary Williams made the prospect of Bob's breaking in at that position virtually nil.

The significance of Middleton's outstanding record is that it was based on all around excellent play. Bob observes that he scored only two touchdowns in three years of action, both of them in the campaign just ended.

In short, his recognition, in his own opinion, was based primarily Davis Cup Begins Return Trip to U.S.

BRISBANE (AP) — The Davis Cup, symbol of world tennis supremacy, is headed back to the United States today, thanks to the dream of a 70-year-old Californian and the racket wizardry of a nerveless young Peruvian.

It was Alejandro Olmedo who scored the vital three points needed to crack Australia's monopoly, but it was Captain Perry Jones who organized and masterminded the successful campaign.

Called a Team Effort
"It was a team job, the organized efforts of many," said Jones, the Los Angeles tennis executive who fought to have Olmedo named to the squad over protests that a foreigner should not represent the United States. Then he recruited the best brains in the sport to help bring Olmedo and the United States to a 3-2 victory.

At the end all the knowledge and inspiration of pro promoter Jack Kramer and his king of pros, Pancho Gonzales, were thrown into the fight. Jones welcomed the help of the pros despite criticism.

Olmedo, a national hero in Peru and a celebrity in the United States, made himself the darling of Australia Wednesday when he beat the recognized best amateur in the world, Ashley Cooper, in the deciding match of the Challenge Round 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Perfectly poised and playing with an artist's skill and touch, the 22-year-old son of a Peruvian court caretaker completely outclassed the holder of the Australian, U.S. and Wimbledon championships.

Fans Demand Olmedo
Afterwards the crowd of 18,500 at Milton Courts interrupted the formal stiff-backed ceremony with cries of "We want Alex, speech Alex, give us Alex."

Then Olmedo stood at the microphone, his teeth glistening against his dark, chiseled face, and in an accent clipped with Spanish thanked the people for their support and added: "I am happy for the United States and Peru that we were able to win."

Olmedo's stunning triumph over Cooper, who is scheduled to be married Friday and then sign a $100,000 pro contract, made a formality of the final match.

Limp and let down from cheering, his teammate, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, lost the final match to Mal Anderson 7-5, 13-11, 11-9, double faulting at match point.

Olmedo won the opening singles over Anderson and teamed with Ham Richardson, America's No. 1 player, to win the doubles over Anderson and Neale Fraser. MacKay lost the opening days singles to Cooper.

Olmedo at times made Cooper look like a frustrated weekend player. As if working on a geometric design, Olmedo kept the ball shooting off at sharp angles. He mixed lobs with drop shots until Cooper shook his head in disbelief.

Makes Fighting Effort
Cooper made a fighting stand. Down love-4 and 1-5 in the third set, he rallied to win three games in a row. In the fourth set Olmedo had a 4-3 lead and 40-love on his own service when Cooper, hitting all out, scrambled back to win the eighth game and knot the set.

But Olmedo roused himself for one final burst and broke Cooper in the 13th game with a series of sharp service returns and then won his own service at love to clinch the match.

He was in tears when he walked off the court as one of the most exciting Davis Cup figures of the generation.

Olmedo immediately dispelled rumors that he might turn pro. He said he was headed back to Los Angeles after the Australian national championships in late January to complete his studies in business administration at the University of Southern California.

He wants to win the Wimbledon or U.S. championship before succumbing to promoter Kramer's gold.

Wyoming Nails Win

Hardin-Simmons Defeated 14-6 in Sun Bowl Struggle

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Wyoming turned two Hardin-Simmons mistakes into touchdowns in the second quarter for a 14-6 victory Wednesday then spent the rest of a bright, crisp afternoon fighting off the determined Border Conference champions in the 24th annual Sun Bowl game.

Wyoming, the Skyline Conference boss, intercepted a pass and pounced on a fumble inside the Hardin-Simmons 30-yard line to set up both its touchdowns within four minutes.

Hardin-Simmons drove 49 yards in 10 plays for its third-quarter score, and twice within that period had thrusts stopped on the Wyoming 10 and 1.

Wyoming's defense was led by guard Leonard Kuczewski who intercepted the pass that set up Wyoming's second touchdown and was named the outstanding player in the game. It was the first time in Sun Bowl history that a linesman took the award.

The crowd of about 13,000 saw Wyoming threaten to turn it into a rout in the second quarter. Wyoming scored twice, then started another drive that was cut short when Hardin-Simmons' Joe Allen intercepted a pass on his own two.

Wyoming's Pat Smith set up the first touchdown when he recovered Dewey Bohling's fumble on the Hardin-Simmons 27. Two plays later Mark Smolinski hustled 22 yards to the touchdown.

Moments later Kuczewski intercepted Harold Stephens' pass and, after a lateral to Bob Sawyer, the ball moved to the Hardin-Simmons 28. Jerry Wilkinson, hit George Johnstone with a 23-yard pass to set it up for Bud Snyder to slash 11 yards for the second score.

Hardin-Simmons got its only touchdown at the end of a slow-moving 49-yard drive. Stephens capped it with a 22-yard scoring strike to Benji Lipsey.

Middleton

on his value to the Prexy eleven as a defensive end. Says Larson: "Bob has a terrific attitude towards winning every game he plays. He's a competitor from the word go and one of his finest attributes is his intense desire to succeed."

Bob himself considers his work in the 1958 Harding 38-13 defeat of Cleveland Glenville as the most outstanding. "I think I turned in my best defensive play in that game," he muses.

A boy with the recognition that has come to Bob is, of course, a prime target for college scouts looking to their particular school's athletic future. Young Middleton, who once aspired to attend a "small school" but who today is "not so sure," has received lucrative offers of football scholarships from no less than 14 institutions.

OF THIS NUMBER, five are Big Ten Conference members, including Ohio State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Michigan State. In addition, Notre Dame, Wake Forest, Miami of Florida and University of Idaho representatives have approached him.

Other Ohio schools besides OSU seeking Bob's enrollment include Muskingum, University of Cincinnati, Ohio University, Baldwin-Wallace and Miami of Ohio.

Although Middleton has, as yet, made no definite choice, he says he "will definitely stay in Ohio." He qualifies this assertion, however, by noting that "I want to visit all the campuses from which have come offers before I make a final decision on which school to attend."

One thing seems certain: no matter which school the Harding star attends it is virtually a foregone conclusion that he will continue to be a credit to the sport, his skill and aptitude for which, commanded the honors given him this year.

Woody Hayes, fiery Buckeye coach, urged Harding gridders, at a clinic program, two years ago, above all, to "play the game to win." Bob Middleton, Coach Larson says, "has followed that advice to the letter." In so doing, he has earned for himself recognition accorded only the finest competitor in every endeavor.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Harding High School's basketball team turned in its top performance of the season Tuesday night while falling to Lorain 72-69 and Coach Don Knodel insists, "We easily could have won it."

SHORT of a really good crowd at Saturday night's game against Ashland.

Knodel feels the greatest thing that could happen to his charges would be a huge turnout Saturday.

"The kids need a shot in the arm," he said. "Right now the local fans should really get out and back their team." He believes the team has the impression that only a few fans are interested in its progress.

DURING their comeback performance after dropping 10 points behind the Steelers, the Prexies flashed an impressive attack. They recorded a 45 per cent shooting average and were described by Knodel as "a tremendous driving team."

Inability to cash in on foul situations in the last period cost Harding the decision.

"It was very encouraging," the Harding coach said. "Those boys fought their hearts out and just wouldn't give up. When the going got tough, they kept their poise and courage."

Harding flashed a pair of new offensive maneuvers which nearly brought victory. One included Knodel's wing offense which uses three guards, a forward and a pivotman.

Mike Chamberlain made use of the new formations to pump in 29 points, high this season by a Harding performer. Most of the scores came on drive-ins and Prexy performers were credited with 10 assists, where they had been averaging 4 a game.

"THEY DESERVED to win," Knodel said. "They looked like a ball team and after that one up there, they deserve to have this gym packed Saturday night."

The Harding mentor feels that after a slow start, the Prexies might be on their way to flashing the brand of basketball of which they are capable.

"Just give us a chance to prove it before a large home crowd," he concluded.

2 Marion Hunters Bag 5 Rabbits and a Snake

It's not every day that you and a "pig in a poke." And, it's not every day you find a "snake in the grass," at least not in the winter-time.

Clifford Roush of 988 Bryant St., and his father, Clinton, were hunting rabbits in Morrow County Wednesday when they came upon a snake. The 16-inch gartersnake lay atop the snow in a corn field, so stiff it could scarcely move. Clifford had only to reach down and pick it up.

Incidentally, the men also bagged five rabbits during their sojourn in the field.

QUIET PLEASE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — It's bad enough to be thrown in jail for public intoxication, but one local imbibor got into even more trouble when he used the jail telephone to call his wife and tell her where he was. She accused him of still being in a bar, refusing to believe the piano she heard in the background was being played by a fellow inmate.

Flight Into Space Reporter Qualifies for Century Club

By DOUG WALKER
Dayton Journal Herald Staff Writer

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The scorching heat of re-entry caused me to lose almost three pounds in two hours as my rocket ship nosed back to earth.

The blood flowed through my veins probably at twice its normal rate, according to Capt. Joseph Gold, M.D., the Wright Air Development Center (WADC) scientist who controlled the test, a simulated flight into outer space.

Under the eyes of WADC researchers I had blasted off into space, felt the vibrations, weightlessness, blackness and isolation. I then re-entered the earth's atmosphere and felt the searing heat of space travel.

130-Degree Heat

The room felt very hot and very dry. The temperature was 130 degrees. It hung there during the two hours I spent in the room.

I was clad in a suit of long underwear that was a maze of wires. I had 17 wires attached to my body, including one on my big toe.

Over the underwear I wore a lightweight flying suit.

Every 15 minutes Capt. Gold took my blood pressure by means of remote instruments.

I sat in a large chair. About eight feet in front of me was a 4-by-4 foot double glassed window.

On the other side of the window Capt. Gold and two assistants stood, as a battery of devices recorded my temperature and heart movements.

The room was heated electrically.

Hands Still Cool

Entering the room at 1:48 p.m., I began to perspire 10 minutes later. Although my face was sweating wet at 2:05 p.m., my hands were still dry and felt cool.

The heat seemed to press most intensely on my forehead.

I noted that everything in the room was hot to the touch, especially the metallic parts of the chair and instrument connections.

At 3 p.m. the observers outside the room said my face had become very red. I was beginning to become fatigued.

At 3:09 p.m. I noted that time was beginning to drag.

At 3:25 p.m. I felt as if I might be getting a headache—there was a slight throb. But the headache never developed.

After the first hour a loudspeaker hooked to a radio played Christmas and popular music to make the time go faster. Imagined jingle bells at 130 degrees.

After two hours, although a little fatigued, I felt relatively good. I had lost two pounds and 11 ounces.

In space, Capt. Gold explained, the heat—less than 500 degrees, it is hoped—may come in impulses. Their duration would be short, and ventilated suits would ward off the ill effects.

The spaceship itself doubtless will be very hot on re-entry.

In space travel at WADC I felt hot and cold sensations to a much lesser degree than when going up, and coming down from 100,000 feet in the altitude chamber.

Being fitted into an MC-3A partial pressure suit with an MA-2 helmet was an experience in itself. The suit must fit snugly, so laces—very much like shoe laces—must be adjusted to the individual.

Breaths Pure Oxygen

Before ascending, I breathed pure oxygen for two hours to rid my body of nitrogen.

At 25,000 feet my arms felt very cool because the perspiration had evaporated.

At 50,000 feet the suit was inflated and very tight. The helmet seemed to rise, and I pulled a strap to readjust it.

At 65,000 feet the suit felt very tight on the back of my knees, and it was an effort to draw my elbows in and pull my knees together to assume the ejection position.

At 100,000 feet—almost the same as the atmosphere (or vacuum) on the inside of a light bulb—the pressure from the suit felt very strong on the calves of my legs.

I became a member of the Century Club, composed of persons, mainly military, who have experienced 100,000 feet.)

Wonderful Sensation

From the top altitude I dropped to 40,000 feet in four seconds. It was a wonderful sensation. I became very warm for a few seconds and the suit seemed to collapse. It had been holding me in a rigid position for some time.

At 20,000 feet the face plate of my helmet was removed and I returned to ground level.

Man has already soared into space. Capt. Iven Kincheloe has soared 126,200 feet in the Bell X-2. The X-15 is being readied for further probing of space.

Radiation and re-entry problems have been partially solved. Tomorrow a round trip to the moon may take only 17 hours.

Dayton Pair Provides Police With New Year's Resolution

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Lloyd Bayless looked at each other, dug into their pockets, came up with a total of $5 and asked if that would help. The Buifords expressed their thanks and were on their way.

A Christmas card arrived at headquarters Tuesday. It was from the Buifords. A $5 bill was tucked inside, and this message: "We can't thank you enough for the kindness you showed us. Even though we may not be able to help you, maybe some day God will send someone to help you like we think he sent you to help us."

"P. S.—We had plenty of gas and enough (money) left over for two hamburgers and cokes."

Thanks to a Dayton, Ohio, couple, two Huntington policemen were provided with a New Year's resolution: Have faith in your fellow man.

Late one night shortly before Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Helge Buiford of Dayton walked into police headquarters. They just passed through Huntington on a trip home and had run out of cash.

Buiford had a personal check but couldn't find anyone who would cash it. He didn't have enough gasoline in his car to get to Dayton. The Buifords asked the officers on duty if they had any suggestions.

State Statute Takes Precedent Over Local Law, Court Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Municipal ordinances must not conflict with state laws, the Ohio Supreme Court held Wednesday.

The unanimous decision knocked out a Cleveland ordinance making it a misdemeanor to carry concealed weapons.

The ordinance, the high court said, is in conflict with a state statute which makes the identical offense a felony.

That decision affirmed an Appellate Court order to vacate the conviction of Joseph Belts for violation of the ordinance. The order called for a new trial in Municipal Court on the same charge under state law. Police found a loaded revolver in Belts' car.

Belts drew a $35 fine and 30-day jail sentence on his misdemeanor conviction. State law makes that crime a felony and carries a maximum fine of $500, six months in jail or three years in the penitentiary.

The city of Cleveland appealed from the Appellate Court decision on grounds that it involved the rights of municipalities to adopt local police regulations under "home rule" provisions of the state constitution.

"It is," the Supreme Court said, "apparent that a police regulation in a municipal ordinance may not validly contravene a statutory enactment of general application throughout the state, and must give way if it is in conflict therewith."

The Supreme Court refused to review lower court decisions blocking incorporation of Brownhelm Village in Lorain County. Voters in the area, embracing a new multimillion dollar Ford plant, approved incorporation in an election Oct. 28, 1957.

But Kenneth Baumhardt and others favoring annexation of the area to Lorain obtained an injunction against incorporation. County commissioners earlier had approved annexation but delayed final action pending disposition of an appeal to the Supreme Court by Louis Rauh Jr., and other incorporation agents. The high court let the injunction stand.

Kindness to Animals Costs Arizona Motorist

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Harry Bizek of Tucson figures this be kind to animals philosophy can be a mite costly.

He was driving down a Tucson street when a dog ran into the path of his auto. He swerved to miss the mutt. His car flipped over. He received a badly skinned knee, a demolished auto, and citations for failure to control his car and not having a driver's license in his possession.

Oklahoma Bank Solves Fund Shortage Puzzle

TALOGA, Okla. (AP)—C. I. Joy walked into the bank and asked: "Did you have a shortage last night? I have it here in my pocket."

He explained that late the day before he had been given $15 cash for a $14 check.

It takes a GIANT to deliver just what 225,000 doctors ordered

The man in white, carefully compounding the doctor's prescription, is a druggist. He is one of 110,000 dedicated pharmacists across the land who contribute to safeguarding the health of all of us.

Throughout the year, these druggists stand ready to give you exactly what the nation's 225,000 doctors order. It's a giant task—a conscientious task—that the druggists perform.

Your local druggist is also a business man, a retailer of many diversified products in addition to drugs. His wares may range all the way from toiletries to toasters.

That's why 73% of the total advertising budgets of all drug stores is invested in newspapers.* Drug store operators have found that newspaper advertising is the most effective and efficient way to keep you informed about products and prices.

Stock Market Rings Curtain Down on One of Greatest Years

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Wednesday rang down the curtain on one of its greatest years. Prices pushed to a record high, the fourth in as many sessions.

Based on the rise in The Associated Press average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose an estimated $1,282,000,000.

This brought to roughly 79 billion dollars the advance in quoted values during the year, based on official stock exchange figures for 11 months and the estimated rise in the past month figured on the increase in the AP average. The AP 60-stock average advanced $1, the same as Tuesday, closing the year at $214.30, a record top. The industrial component rose $1.50 to a record high, the rails were up 90 cents and the utilities 30 cents, both to 1958 highs.

The closing 1958 session was filled with the usual cross-currents due to year-end transactions such as tax-loss selling, switching and "window dressing" on the part of big investment portfolios to show a good representation of high quality issues. Because of the big rise this year, however, tax-loss transactions were not as prominent as in the past.

Volume rose to 3,970,000 shares compared with 3,900,000 shares Tuesday — a modest total compared with the 5,070,000 turnover of Dec. 31, 1957.

The market was higher throughout the session. Steels, motors and oils paced a lively advance early afternoon. Some of the best gains were clipped by the close. A total of 1,265 issues was traded, exactly the same as Tuesday, in another broad market. There were 622 gainers and 392 losers, 101 new highs for the year and 7 new lows.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks rose, two fell and two were unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were generally higher on volume of 1,890,000 shares compared with 1,670,000 Tuesday.

A year-end rally boosted long-range government bonds as much as half a point in light trading. Corporate trading declined to $6,100,000 par value on the big board from $6,340,000 Tuesday.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market goes into the new year on a bullish note despite small setbacks Wednesday on the Board of Trade.

Dealers said prices showed surprisingly strong resistance to profit taking and other liquidation for the holiday in fairly active two-sided dealings as a follow-up to the broad general advance of Tuesday.

The market behavior, they said, was an indication that prices have come into some stability after a considerable string of declines. Opinion was that Tuesday's sudden rally from the season's low prices for many contracts was the turning point and that most of the long-standing bearish factors now have been absorbed.

Oriental Glamour Shines in Theater

Spotlight on Broadway Turns East During 1958

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's taste in leading ladies took on an Oriental cast this year.

Two of the year's brightest feminine stars were Miyoshi Umeki, Japanese charmer in the new Rodgers-Hammerstein musical hit, "Flower Drum Song," and France Nuyen, Marseilles-born daughter of a French mother and a Chinese father, who takes the bows in "The World of Suzie Wong."

Saving the day for American stars was the dazzling Anne Bancroft, a native of the Bronx, who won the highest critical acclaim for her starring role in "Two for the Seesaw."

The year saw established queens of the glamour scene parade to new triumphs, but a fresh crop of talent and an exotic trend won the greatest attention.

Backstage, Ketti Frings, a matronly Hollywood script writer, swept up all the honors including the Pulitzer prize for her play, "Look Homeward, Angel," based on the Thomas Wolfe novel.

Great Ladies

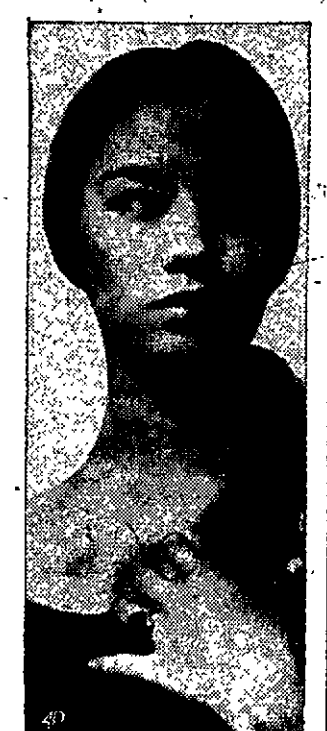

New laurels were won by Helen Hayes, with an American Theatre Wing Tony as the top star for "Time Remembered," plus a bevy of critical bouquets for "A Touch of the Poet."

Among the other great ladies were Katharine Cornell, back after six years, in "The Firstborn," in "The Visit" one of her most memorably memorable portrayals.

MIYOSHI UMEKI

FRANCE NUYEN

Gwen Verdon and Thelma Ritter shared honors as the top distaff musical stars of the season for their performances in "New Girl in Town."

Also on the song-and-dance stage, Jacquelyn McKeever was cited for her debut in "Oh, Captain!"

A gaggle of girls earned more than passing critical attention in smaller parts of major value. Included were Zohra Lampert, Colin Wilcox, Jan Brooks and Undine Forrest. Also noted were Joy Harmon, a miss with Jayne Mansfield dimensions, and Dolores Hart, who bested 500 trout rivals for initial opportunity in "The Pleasure of His Company."

Backstage Stars

The ladies were prominent in many backstage assignments, with Betty Coe Armstrong, Ruth Morley and Virginia Volland among the busiest costume designers, and Jean Rosenthal and Peggy Clark all over Broadway as lighting experts.

A number of damsels from foreign parts added new allure to the scene. These included the 50 pretty and accomplished Russian girls of the Beryoska Dance company, the troupe of "La Flume de Ma Tante" and assorted lasses of Oriental heritage answering the White Way's sudden demand for Far Eastern entertainment.

Farm Bureau Sets Program For Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Those thousands of Ohio farmers closely allied with the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation are going to ask the Ohio Legislature for help in escaping the cost-price squeeze.

Among the major Farm Bureau policy proposals which will be presented to the Legislature convening Monday, reports D. R. Stanfield, executive vice president, are these:

1. Assumption of greater state responsibility for aiding school districts in their building program since many districts are bonded to the limit.

2. Consideration of new taxes such as an increase in the retail sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent, an increase in the rate of corporate franchise tax and return of the federal excise tax on long-distance telephone calls to the state general revenue fund.

3. Consideration of the governor's Water Supply Committee recommendations.

4. A study of problems relating to the allocation of costs of water and sewer lines.

In addition, Stanfield said, the Farm Bureau will ask that farmers be released from paying sales tax on equipment used in production.

Aim of the legislative program, he said, is "to increase farm incomes, raise rural standards of living and put better quality food on Ohio dinner tables."

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Union Continuing Talks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Negotiators ended 1958 without reaching any agreement which would settle a long strike of 13,000 employees at 11 plants of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

But they'll start the new year by trying again.

Hayward J. Montoney, federal mediator from Columbus, said negotiators for the company and the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union would hold group sessions Thursday.

He said the next joint session of the bargaining committee probably would be held either late Thursday or Friday.

The strike started last October. Previous negotiating meetings in other cities have wound up in failure to agree on a new contract.

Livestock Prices

Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The market for butcher hogs was weak again Wednesday despite a sharply curtailed supply of 5,500 head. Prices were 25 to 75 cents lower although about 125 head sold at prices equal to or slightly above Tuesday's top.

Buyers took those offerings at $18.50-18.60, paying the top for only 21 head of 200-210 lb mixed 1-2 grades. Tuesday's top was $18.50.

The practical top of $18.25 went for a few lots of mixed 1s and 2s weighing 200-225 lbs. The same weights of mixed 2s and 3s were $17-18 with some No. 3s going as low as $16.75. Heavier kinds cleared at $15.75-17.25.

Sows were steady to weak and sold at $13-14.50.

Several loads of 1,050-1,350 lb brought $29.25-30 with prices steady to 75 cents higher. Mixed choice and prime scaling 1,350 lb and down brought $27-29 and some 1,050 lb mixed good and choice $27.50. Choice and prime in the 1,375-1,600 lb group went at $24.25-27 and the good grade of heavyweights at $23.

Heifers were strong to 50 cents higher, bulls steady to 25 higher, and vealers steady. Mixed choice and prime heifers were $28.35-28.75 the good and choice $25.50-28.25. Utility and commercial bulls were $23.50-25.50 and vealers $32 and down.

In the sheep market, good and choice wooled slaughter lambs sold at $17-20 with prices 25 to 50

Ends 13,000-Mile Solo Voyage

Engineer Sails His Yawl Halfway Around World

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — cost the Los Angeles design en-
"Never again," says handsome 34-year-old Peter Tangvald after a harrowing one-man sailing voyage halfway around the world. "It is too much for one man."
He should know. He sailed his 45-foot wooden yawl Windflower from West Mersey, England, to Long Beach, on the Southern California coast.
The 13,000-mile voyage took more than 14 months and nearly cent and started sailing when he was 14.

He hadn't planned to make the trip alone. His wife Lillemore accompanied him from England to France in the fall of 1957. Rough weather on that shakedown cruise led her to fly home to California.

The Windflower covered the 3-100-miles from the Canary Islands to Antigua in the West Indies in 31 days. The sailor says this is the second fastest time on record for a sailing vessel.

Did he get bored? No, he was too busy working 14 to 16 hours a day. His sleep—eight hours a day—came in naps of two or three hours each.

Despite his "never again" remark, the solo voyager adds: "It was a great adventure."

SATISFIED
BECAUSE We Perform These ...

"7" STEPS

1. Accurately diagnose the repairs needed on your car.
If you request it, we will give you in advance our analysis of the work to be done.

2. Secure your authorization to do the work before starting.

3. Notify you in advance of any additional work we think should be done, and secure your approval before proceeding.

4. Perform all the work on your car as efficiently and as economically as possible and will replace only those parts which in our judgment need replacing.

5. Road test your car after the work is done and before we return the car to you, if the nature of the work requires it.

6. Have your car ready on time. If the work takes longer than we estimate, we will advise you as far in advance as possible.

7. Provide you with an itemized bill showing exactly what work was done and exactly what it cost. We will gladly explain any items that are not clear to you.

REX MORGAN, M.D. By Dal Curtis

AS WE GIVE THANKS FOR OUR BLESSINGS OF THE PAST YEAR, LET'S PAY HOMAGE TO THOSE MEN AND WOMEN WHO HAVE FOLLOWED IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF ALBERT SCHWEITZER, DEDICATING THEIR LIVES TO THOSE WHO ARE MOST IN NEED!

—OR THE HILLS OF BURMA—

WHEREVER COMES A CRY OF PAIN, A MEDICO IS READY AND WAITING TO GO!

WHETHER IT BE IN THE JUNGLES OF AFRICA...

STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff

ALL YOU DO IS GO SOME PLACE AND MEET BEAUTIFUL DAMES—THEREBY CAUSING DISSENSION AND UNREST AMONG OTHER AIR FORCE BACKLOG TYPES

THIS IS THE WAY THE CONE MEETS—AS THEY DON'T SAY ON MADISON AVENUE JOB HAS A SISTER WHO LEFT THEIR HOME TOWN FOR A POSITION IN THE BIG CITY

RECENTLY WE HAD A DISTURBING CALL FROM THE BROTHER—HIS SISTER HAD QUIT WORKING—ALTHOUGH SHE HAD NO OTHER INCOME

NOW SHE TURNS UP AT ONE OF THE WINTER SPORTS RESORTS IN EUROPE, VERY NEAR TO THE FRINGE ON THE IRON CURTAIN!

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME By Jimmy Hatlo

THAT POLKA-DOT TIE! UH-UH! DON'T CHA KNOW YOU SHOULDN'T WEAR A FIGURED TIE WITH A STRIPED SUIT? AND YOUR HANDKERCHIEF AIN'T FOLDED RIGHT—TSK—TSK—

HUM? WHAT'JA SAY?

LISTEN TO WHO GIVES WITH THE WHAT THE WELL-DRESSED MAN WILL WEAR—CRUDNEY, THE SLOPPIEST GUY IN THREE COUNTIES!

THE FIRST TIME MY WIFE SAW CRUD SHE SAID HE LOOKED LIKE HE JUST GOT RUN OVER—

YEAH—CRUD'S SOCKS DON'T EVEN MATCH—HIS IDEA OF DOLLING UP IS YELLOW BULLDOG SHOES AND AN ELECTRIC-BLUE SUIT—

HE'S ALSO AN AUTHORITY ON EVERYBODY ELSE'S WORK HERE—EVEN THOUGH HE DOESN'T DO ANY, HIMSELF!

Listening to the office expert on everything giving a pal the "how to"...
